

Contents

Foreword — V

Part 1: Introductory Chapters

Ole Jakob Filtvedt and Jens Schröter

The Delphic Maxim Interpreted: Aims, Scope, and Significance of the Present Study — 3

Ole Jakob Filtvedt

Ancient Self-Knowledge: Exploring Some of the Scholarly Debates — 21

Ellisif Wasmuth

Interpretations and Echoes of the Delphic Maxim in Pre-Christian Greek Philosophy — 55

Tommy Wasserman

“Know Your Text”: the Integrity and Interpretation of Alcibiades m. 133c8–17 — 85

Part 2: Main Chapters

Beatrice Wyss

Philo of Alexandria and the Transitory and Apophatic Dimensions of Knowing Oneself — 125

Gudrun Holtz

Seneca: Knowledge of Self and Nature — 159

Rainer Hirsch-Luipold

Plutarch: Know God and Know Yourself — 211

Glenn Wehus

Know Your Exceptionality. The Delphic Maxim Know Yourself in Epictetus — 231

Wally V. Cirafesi

Between Self-Knowledge and Self-Enjoyment: ΓΝΩΘΙ CAYTON in the Skeleton Mosaic from beneath the Monastery of San Gregorio — 269

Christian H. Bull

Self-Knowledge as Alienation and Unification in the Hermetica — 293

Matthew P. Monger

Self-Knowledge and the Hidden Kingdom: The Delphic Maxim in the Manuscripts of Gos. Thom. 3 — 319

John Kaufman

What does it Mean to be Human? The Delphic Maxim in Irenaeus — 337

Henny Fiskå Hägg

Know Yourself in Clement of Alexandria: Self-Knowledge, God-Knowledge and the Transformation of Self — 365

Karl Olav Sandnes

When Mortals Become Sinners: Tertullian Grappling with the Delphic Maxim — 385

Ilaria L.E. Ramelli

A Maxim of Greek Philosophy Found in Scripture: “Know Yourself” in Origen and Reflections in Gregory of Nyssa — 423

Ole Jakob Filtvedt

Jesus Knowing Himself: Origen and the Gospel of John — 473

Eyjólfur Kjalar Emilsson

Plotinus on the Delphic Maxim: Knowing and Being One’s True Self — 505

Hanne Birgitte Sødal Tveito

Knowing Yourself as an Essential Part of Origen's Teaching According to Gregory Thaumaturgus — 527

Matthew Drever

Forged in the Community of Divine Love: Augustine's Quest through the Maxim of Self-Knowledge for Finite Wholeness within the Infinite God — 569

Author Index — 595

Index of biblical and classical sources — 603