

Contents

|                                |      |
|--------------------------------|------|
| Dedication . . . . .           | V    |
| Foreword . . . . .             | IX   |
| List of contributors . . . . . | XI   |
| Preface . . . . .              | XIII |

Introduction

|                                                                                                                    |    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Temporomandibular joint degenerative diseases: pathogenesis . . . .L.G.M. de Bont                       | 3  |
| Temporomandibular joint degenerative diseases: clinical diagnosis .B. Stegenga                          | 13 |
| Temporomandibular joint disc displacement: a re-evaluation of itssignificance . . . . .M.F. Dolwick | 27 |

Treatment planning

|                                                                                                                                                                |    |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Rationale for non-surgical temporomandibular joint management . .J.P. Okeson                                                                        | 35 |
| Rationale for surgical temporomandibular joint management . . . .R.H. Reich                                                                         | 47 |
| Orthognathic considerations in temporomandibular joint treatmentplanning . . . . .D.B. Tuinzing                                                 | 53 |
| Criteria for temporomandibular joint treatment outcome . . . . .A.B. Holmlund                                                                       | 63 |
| The current role of conventional radiography and computerizedtomography in temporomandibular joint treatment planning . . . . .B. van der Kuijl | 73 |
| The current role of magnetic resonance imaging in temporomandi-bular joint treatment planning . . . . .Q.N. Anderson                            | 87 |

|                                                                                                |    |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Current role of diagnostic arthroscopy in temporomandibular joint treatment planning . . . . . | 99 |
| K.-I. Murakami and N. Segami                                                            |    |

Surgical procedures: biologic basis and treatment outcome

|                                                                                                                      |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Temporomandibular joint arthrocentesis: biologic basis and treatment outcome . . . . .                               | 113 |
| D.W. Nitzan                                                                                                   |     |
| Biologic basis and outcome of arthroscopic lysis and lavage of the temporomandibular joint . . . . .                 | 125 |
| R.D. Schwartz                                                                                                 |     |
| Biologic basis for modified condylotomy in the management of temporomandibular joint degenerative diseases . . . . . | 135 |
| S.J. McKenna                                                                                                  |     |
| Temporomandibular joint disc surgery: biologic basis and treatment outcome . . . . .                                 | 149 |
| D.E. Ryan                                                                                                     |     |

Post-operative care and treatment failure

|                                                                                           |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Rehabilitation of the temporomandibular joint through the application of motion . . . . . | 161 |
| W.L. McCarty Jr.                                                                   |     |
| Post-operative physical therapy of the temporomandibular joint . . .                      | 177 |
| P.U. Dijkstra                                                                      |     |
| Correction of temporomandibular joint ankylosis resulting from earlier surgery . . . . .  | 191 |
| R.B. MacIntosh                                                                     |     |
| Management of non-successful treatment outcome . . . . .                                  | 205 |
| R.G. Merrill                                                                       |     |

Synthesis

|                                                  |     |
|--------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Discussion of controversial statements . . . . . | 221 |
| J.F. Helfrick                             |     |
| Subject index . . . . .                          | 229 |