

TABLE OF CONTENTS

7	INTRODUCTION, OR BREAKING NEW GROUND(S)
33	HARRIS'S SPATIAL PRACTICES: BETWEEN ANARCHITECTURE AND SPACE-TIME
53	The Materialities and the Materialism of Space
67	Walls: Defining Space
75	Volume and Gravity: Measuring and Sensing Space
95	The Lot: Dealing with Abstract Space
105	Anarchitecture as Paradigm
109	SoHo: The Making of New Space(s) and Places
113	Lofts: Illegal Living
122	Alternative Spaces: 112 Greene Street as Place and Prototype
130	FOOD: Space for Eating, Working, and Making a Living
133	Claiming Space(s)—Producing Places
139	SPACES IN MOTION: HARRIS'S "DIALECTIC WITH SPACE"
148	Bodies in Motion: Dance in Relation to Sculpture
154	Walking, Dancing, and Choreographing Bodies
160	Improvisation: NO to Choreography, NO to Organization, NO to Hierarchies
167	From a Broken Body to a Dancing Body
170	Sensory Awareness: The Program
177	The Natural History of the American Dancer
186	Dancing in the Space-Time Continuum
194	"Form as a Relative Movement through Time and Space"
198	Motion as Object: Sculpture in Relation to Dance
200	Moving through the Field of Sculpture
206	The Human Figure vs. the Sensing Body in/as Sculpture
214	Figures and Bodies, Materials and Matter, or Elements of Science
225	Turning Sculpture Inside Out
236	The Body as Battleground

240	In Motion: Ephemeral Installations
248	Lived (Bodily) Experience and Phenomenology
259	Sensory Awareness: A Philosophy Based on Motion
263	Harris and the Dance of Dialectic
273	Cyclic Processes: The Absent Bodies of Harris's Body of Work
291	LOCUS: THE MAKING OF A PLACE IN FLUX
298	LOCUS and the Archaeology of a New Site
304	LOCUS and the Notion of Site
309	LOCUS and Urban Politics
314	LOCUS and the Production of Space
321	LOCUS and Public Art
341	BY WAY OF CONCLUSION: UNFINISHED BUSINESS, OR SPACES IN ETERNAL FLUX
357	ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS
359	BIBLIOGRAPHY
359	Note on the Estate of Suzanne Harris
359	Consulted Archives
360	Selected Literature
368	LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS
371	INDEX