

Contents

Editors' Introduction	1
The Period and Its Questions	2
Scope of the Volume	7
An International Enterprise	8
The Status of Women (Philosophers)	9
Questioning the Canon	12
Challenging the Boundaries of Philosophical Discourse	14
Constellations and Solidarity	17
Concluding Thoughts	19
Translation, Acknowledgments, Sources	20
1. Germaine de Staël (1766–1817)	23
Introduction	23
On Women Writers	30
Kant	38
On the Influence of the New Philosophy on the Sciences	51
2. Karoline von Günderode (1780–1806)	62
Introduction	62
On Fichte's The Vocation of Humankind	70
Philosophy of Nature	75
The Idea of Nature	81
The Idea of the Earth	82
3. Bettina Brentano von Arnim (1785–1859)	85
Introduction	85
Selections from Günderode	92
4. Hedwig Dohm (1831–1919)	122
Introduction	122
Nietzsche and Women	128
The New Mother	139
The Old Woman	145
On the Agitators of Anti-feminism	150
5. Clara Zetkin (1857–1933)	154
Introduction	154
For the Liberation of Women!	162

vi CONTENTS

Women's Suffrage	167
Save the Scottsboro Boys!	174
6. Lou Salomé (1861–1937)	177
Introduction	177
Selections from The Erotic	184
7. Rosa Luxemburg (1871–1919)	206
Introduction	206
Wage Labor, selections from Introduction to Political Economy	214
8. Edith Stein (1891–1942)	241
Introduction	241
Selections from On Empathy	248
9. Gerda Walther (1897–1977)	273
Introduction	273
Selections from A Contribution to the Ontology of Social Communities	281
Bibliography	311
Cited in Editors' Introductions	311
Cited in Translated Texts	319
Index	323