

Contents

Preface	vii
Illustration Credits and Copyright	xi
Introduction	xiii
CHAPTER 1
Politics and Structure at Old Sarum	i
The Location of Old Sarum	i
Bishop Hereman's Foundation 1075–1078	6
Bishop Osmund's Consecration 1078–1099	15
Bishop Roger's Expansion 1102–1138	17
Bishop Jocelin's Alterations 1142–1184	27
Bishop Herbert Poore's Plans 1194–1217	34
Bishop Richard Poore's Move to the New Site 1219	37
Old Sarum Cathedral Processions	39
Conclusion	52
CHAPTER 2
The City as Seen – Thirteenth-Century Salisbury	55
Salisbury – The Foundation and Town Plan of New Sarum	57
Salisbury – Built Fabric	63
City Government and Occupations	68
Conclusion	72
CHAPTER 3
Medieval Representation and New Town Foundation	75
Medieval Modes of Representation	77
Geometry and Structure of Medieval Cities	82
Textual References to Medieval Cities	101
Processional Order	112
Corpus Christi Processions and Mystery Plays	114
Conclusion	117

CHAPTER 4

Salisbury Cathedral – The Heavenly City	119
Chronology of the Cathedral Building	119
Description of the Cathedral	124
The Hierarchy Inherent in the Liturgical Aspects of the Design	149
The Foundation of the Cathedral	153
The Two Consecrations	162
The Translocation of Osmund	165
Conclusion	169

CHAPTER 5

The Churchyard and Close – The Holy City	175
Elements of the Close and their Chronology	175
The Location and Size of the Close	179
Description of the Churchyard and its Elements	185
The Close or claustrum	203
Conclusion	208

CHAPTER 6

Salisbury – The Processional City	211
The Religious Institutions of the City	213
The Processional Order of the City	219
Processional Temporality – Time as Lived	232
Augustine's Threefold Temporality	237
Robert Grosseteste on the Explication of Time	242
Conclusion	245

CHAPTER 7

Conclusion	249
------------	-----

Bibliography	257
--------------	-----

Index	271
-------	-----