

| | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Chapter 1. Football between History, Politics, Society, and Culture: Introduction (Maroš Melichárek and Dariusz Wojtaszyn) | 1 |
| Chapter 2. A Popular Game in Dracula's Land? A Socio-Historical Overview of Romanian Football (Andrei Antonie) | 9 |
| Chapter 3. From Commons to Commodity and Back Again: Football's Great Transformation in Post-socialist Romania (Razvan Papasima) | 33 |
| Chapter 4. Yugoslav Football from Tito's Death to the Breakup of Yugoslavia: Situation and Problems in the Climate of Political Conflict (Davor Kovačić) | 57 |

| | |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Chapter 5. Football and Politicians: Tito, Tuđman, and Milošević and Their Political Instrumentalization of the Social Phenomenon of Football (Maciej Górski) | 79 |
| Chapter 6. Competing for the Nation on the Football Pitch: Ideology and Sports in Mostar (Giordano Merlicco, Danilo Kovač and Luca Alteri) | 101 |
| Chapter 7. Greek Football of the 70s and 80s in the Memories of Polish Coaches and Footballers (Artur Pasko) | 131 |
| Chapter 8. The Odyssey of Greek Football: Politics, Corruption and the Spirit of Division (Theofilos Pouliopoulos) | 145 |
| Chapter 9. Conclusions (Maroš Melichárek and Dariusz Wojtaszyn) | 167 |
| Notes on Contributors | 171 |
| Index | 173 |