

Contents

I Observation and Description of Structures

|                                                                                                                                                            |     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| W.C. Seitter, H.-A. Ott, R. Duemmler, P. Schuecker and H. Horstmann:Problems and Solutions in Observational Cosmology . . . . .                        | 3   |
| G. Chincarini:Clustered Galaxies: Many Questions and Few Answers . . . . .                                                                             | 29  |
| D. Trevese:Evolutionary Effects in Cluster Galaxies . . . . .                                                                                          | 71  |
| R. Capuzzo-Dolcetta:Evolutionary Population Synthesis: From Galaxies to Open Clusters . . . .                                                          | 79  |
| R.P. Olowin:The All-Sky Abell Rich Cluster Catalogue: Preparation and Uncertainties .                                                                  | 93  |
| D.J. Batuski, N.A. Bahcall, R.P. Olowin and J.O. Burns:Large-Scale Structure in the New Southern Extension of theAbell Catalogue . . . . .         | 104 |
| G. Giuricin:Groups of Galaxies . . . . .                                                                                                               | 107 |
| P. Flin:The Alignment of Galaxies . . . . .                                                                                                            | 124 |
| M. Einasto:Distribution of Galaxies of Different Luminosity in the Virgo Supercluster .                                                                | 134 |
| A.P. Fairall:Southern Superclusters and Voids . . . . .                                                                                                | 145 |
| E. Tago:Filamentary Structure of Nearby Superclusters of Galaxies . . . . .                                                                            | 150 |
| O. Lahav:Anisotropies in the Local Universe . . . . .                                                                                                  | 161 |
| B. Wszolek:Dusty Intergalactic Matter . . . . .                                                                                                        | 178 |
| V. Müller, J.P. Mücke, H.J. Haubold and S. Gottlöber:Quasar Absorption Spectra and Cosmology . . . . .                                                 | 186 |
| D.J. Batuski, J.M. Hill and J.O. Burns:Multiple Aperture Spectroscopy for Cluster Dynamics andLarge-Scale Structure: The MX Spectrometer . . . . . | 190 |

VI

II Analysis and Modelling of Structures

|                                                                                                                                                          |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| A.P. Fairall:Spatial Distribution of Galaxies: Considerations and ImplicationsConcerning the Foamlike Structure . . . . .                        | 197 |
| E. Saar:Towards Fractal Description of Structure . . . . .                                                                                           | 205 |
| J. Einasto, M. Einasto and M. Gramann:Quantitative Study of the Large-Scale Distribution of Galaxies:Fractal Structure of the Universe . . . . . | 220 |
| R. Schaeffer:The Non-linear Universe from 0.01 to 100 Mpc . . . . .                                                                                  | 230 |

III Origin and Evolution of Structures

|                                                                                                                                  |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| J. Jaaniste:Hypergalactic Structures . . . . .                                                                               | 257 |
| J.L. Sanz and E. Martínez-González:The Luminosity Function in the Context of Biased Galaxy Formation . . .                   | 265 |
| F. Lucchin:The Mass Function of Cosmic Structures . . . . .                                                                  | 284 |
| S.A. Bonometto:Gaussian Properties of Large-Scale Matter Distribution . . . . .                                              | 302 |
| B.J. Carr:Population III Stars and Baryonic Dark Matter . . . . .                                                            | 317 |
| V.N. Lukash:Concealed Parameters of Dark Matter and Galaxy Formation . . . . .                                               | 331 |
| H.J. Haubold, J.P. Mückel, S. Gottlöber and V. Müller:Gravitational Instability in a Two-Component Cosmological Medium . . . | 340 |
| M. Gramann:Connectivity in CDM Universes . . . . .                                                                           | 343 |
| L. Kofman:Structure of the Universe via Gravitational Potential . . . . .                                                    | 354 |
| A.G. Polnarev:Primordial Black Holes and Their Cosmological Consequences . . . . .                                           | 369 |
| W.C. Seitter and R. Duemmler:The Cosmological Constant – Historical Annotations . . . . .                                    | 377 |

IV History and Methodology

|                                                                                                                           |     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| P. Wild:                                                                                                                  |     |
| Fritz Zwicky . . . . .                                                                                                    | 391 |
| W. Iwanowska:                                                                                                             |     |
| Ambartsumian's Views on Structure and Evolution of the Universe . . . . .                                                 | 399 |
| H.W. Duerbeck:                                                                                                            |     |
| Carl Wirtz – An Early Observational Cosmologist . . . . .                                                                 | 405 |
| M. Lutz:                                                                                                                  |     |
| Fritz Zwicky's Postulate of Freedom from Prejudice Consideredfrom the Standpoint of the Theory of Knowledge . . . . . | 408 |
| K. Rudnicki:                                                                                                              |     |
| Philosophical Foundations of Zwicky's Morphological Approachin Science . . . . .                                      | 418 |

V Summary

|                                         |     |
|-----------------------------------------|-----|
| W.C. Seitter:                           |     |
| Summary . . . . .                       | 429 |
| Participants and Contributors . . . . . | 435 |