

Foreword	7
Preface—from the Philosopher’s Point of View	9
Introduction	13
Wristwatch Adventure	13
What Benefit Does This Book Bring to the Reader?	15
Evaluation of the Design of the Movement and Case	16
The Anonymous Purchase of Special Wristwatches to Determine Quality and Precision	18
Procurement Channels, Opportunities, and Risks	18
Utility Value, Service Costs, and Actual Resale Prices	19
Wristwatches as Investments	19
The Secret of the Dials: A Particularly Important Topic	19
Decoding the Case Markings	20
Photography and Editorial Collaboration	21
1. Audemars Piguet	23
1.1. Introduction by Gisbert L. Brunner	23
1.2. The Movements	26
1.3. The Reference Numbers	31
1.4. The Case Numbers	31
1.5. The Watches	31
2. IWC	51
2.1. Introduction by Gisbert L. Brunner	51
2.2. The Movements	54
2.3. The Reference Numbers	60
2.4. The Case Numbers	61
2.5. The Watches	61
2.6. The Self-Winding Watches	68
2.7. The IWC-Pellaton Winding System from the Point of View of Technical Mechanics	89
3. Jaeger-LeCoultre	95
3.1. Introduction by Gisbert L. Brunner	95
3.2. The Movements	98
3.3. The Reference and Case Numbers	102
3.4. The Watches	102
3.5. The Self-Winding Watches	106
3.6. Jaeger-LeCoultre Watches from the 1970s and ’80s	115
3.7. Some New Models from Jaeger-LeCoultre	124
4. A. Lange & Söhne by Peter Braun	127
4.1. Introduction	127
4.2. The Movements	128
4.3. Lange 1 W (1994, 2015)	129
4.4. Lange 1 Daymatic (2010)	130
4.5. Datograph (1999) / Double Split (2010)	131
4.6. 1815 Tourbillon (2014)	133
4.7. Lange Zeitwerk (2009)	134
4.8. Richard Lange (2006)	136
5. Patek Philippe	139
5.1. Introduction by Gisbert L. Brunner	139
5.2. The Movements	142
5.3. The Case Numbers	149
5.4. The Reference Numbers	150
5.5. Other Identification Markings—Characters, Hallmarks, and Stamps	151
5.6. Precious Metal or Stainless Steel—a Little Materials Science	152
5.7. The Watches	152
5.8. Concluding Potpourri	213
6. Rolex	217
6.1. Introduction by Gisbert L. Brunner	217
6.2. The Movements	221
6.3. The Reference Numbers	226

6.4	The Case Numbers	226
6.5	The Watches	226
7.	Vacheron & Constantin	247
7.1	Introduction by Gisbert L. Brunner	247
7.2	The Movements	250
7.3	The Reference Numbers	256
7.4	The Case Numbers	256
7.5	The Watches	256
8.	Buying and Overhauling Special Wristwatches on the Basis of Concrete Examples	295
8.1	How It Used to Be	295
8.2	Proper Preparation	295
8.3	Sources	295
8.4	The Used Wristwatches Purchased and Discussed Here	296
8.5	Audemars Piguet Automatic Ref. 5112 BA (BA Stands for 750 Yellow Gold)	296
8.6	IWC Automatic Yacht Club Ref. 811 AD in Steel	297
8.7	Jaeger-LeCoultre Memovox Date E 855 Automatic in Steel	299
8.8	Patek Philippe Automatic Date Ref. 3445 in 750 Yellow Gold	300
8.9	Vacheron & Constantin Automatic Date Chronometer Royal, Special Version	301
8.10	Rolex Oyster Day-Date Ref. 1803 in Yellow Gold	302
8.11	IWC Automatic Ref. 3205 in Stainless Steel	304
8.12	Patek Philippe Ref. 2551J-200	305
8.13	Rolex Cosmograph Daytona Ref. 116.520 in Stainless Steel	306
9.	New Automatic Movements from Switzerland	311
9.1	How Does a New Self-Winding Movement Come About?	311
9.2	What Steps Precede This Undertaking?	311
9.3	How Does Such a Process Work?	312
9.4	Efficiency and Level of Innovation	313
9.5	The New Automatic Movements	314
9.6	Audemars Piguet, Caliber 3120	314
9.7	IWC International Watch Co., Caliber 80110	316
9.8	Jaeger-LeCoultre, Caliber 975	321
9.9	Vacheron & Constantin, Caliber 2475	324
9.10	Rolex, Caliber 3135	327
9.11	Conclusion and Outlook	328
10.	Current Chronographs from Switzerland	331
10.1	Introduction	331
10.2	Three Current Chronographs—with Rolex as the Reference	332
10.3	Initial Inspection and Practical Test	333
10.4	The Chronograph Movements	333
10.5	The Caliber CH 28-520 IRM QA 24H from Patek Philippe	334
10.6	The Caliber C. 89360 from IWC	335
10.7	The Caliber 751 from Jaeger-LeCoultre	338
10.8	The Reference: The Caliber 4130 from Rolex	340
10.9	How the Testing Was Done	342
11.	The Noble Sports Watches: The Audemars Piguet Royal Oak, Patek Philippe Nautilus, and Vacheron Constantin 222	345
11.1	Introduction	345
11.2	Sports Watches: Trend of the Time?	346
11.3	The Movements—Commonality No. 1	347
11.4	The Cases—Two Created by the Designer Gerald Genta, One by the Young German Designer Jörg Hysek	351
11.5	Closing Remarks	352
12.	The Secret of the Dials—the Face of a Watch	354
12.1	The Meaning and Value of a Watch Dial	354
12.2	Swiss Watch Dial Makers	354
12.3	The Making of a Dial—Design and Construction	356
12.4	Materials for the Making of Watch Dials	357
12.5	Manufacturing Processes and Production Sequence	357

12.6	The Enamel Dial	359
12.7	The Guilloché Dial	361
12.8	SWISS and SWISS MADE Dial Labels	362
12.9	Association pour la promotion industrielle de l' or (APRIOR), a High-Quality Feature No Longer Known Today	362
12.10	Eric Clapton's Ref. 2499/100 Chronograph as an Example of the APRIOR Label	362
12.11	Conclusion concerning the APRIOR Label	365
12.12	Suppliers of Dials to the House of Patek Philippe	366
12.13	Watch Dials: Definitions	370
12.14	Results of the Examination of Patek Philippe Dials	370
12.15	Jaeger-LeCoultre Watch Dials	387
12.16	IWC Watch Dials	389
12.17	Vacheron & Constantin Watch Dials, Now Vacheron Constantin	390
12.18	Rolex Watch Dials	392
12.19	Watch Dials from Audemars Piguet	394
12.20	Three Imposing Examples of the Special Significance of Dials	395
12.21	The Results of This Analysis	401
12.22	Summary	402
13.	Physical Principles for the Accuracy of Wristwatches	407
13.1	Introduction	407
13.2	The Balance Spring	407
13.3	The Oscillating Weight, the Balance Wheel	410
13.4	Lubrication of the Watch	411
13.5	Dependence on Air Pressure	412
13.6	Fine Adjustment of the Complicated Watch	412
13.7	Results of the Wear Test	413
13.8	Position Dependence	414
13.9	Quality Impression	414
13.10	Summary	415
14.	Technical Notes—from the Engineer's Point of View	417
14.1	Accuracy—a Supreme Discipline of the Wristwatch	417
14.2	What Do Design and Manufacturing Technology Contribute to Rate Accuracy?	417
14.3	The New Rolex Sea Dweller Ref. 126600 with the New Caliber 3235 and the NOMOS Club Sport Neomatic 42 Datum Ref. 781 with the Manufacture Caliber DUW 6101	418
14.4	Constructive Brainstorming, Two Examples	419
14.4.1	The Fine-Adjustment Mechanism of the New Rolex Caliber 3235	419
14.4.2	The Use of Ceramics in Watch Movements	420
14.4.3	Alternatives	422
14.5	The Use of Outsourced Calibers (Ébauches)	424
15.	Purchasing Old Wristwatches—Opportunities and Risks	427
15.1	Watch Purchase Checklist	427
15.2	Purchase from an Antique-Watch Dealer	430
15.3	Buying at National and International Auctions	431
15.4	Buying at Watch Fairs	433
15.5	Buying on the Internet	433
16.	The Expert Overhaul	437
16.1	An Overhaul by Patek Philippe	437
16.2	An Overhaul by the Concessionaire	439
16.3	An Overhaul by a Trusted Watchmaker	440
17.	Value and Value Enhancement Potential	443
17.1	Watches from Auction Houses	443
17.2	Watches from Watch Fairs	444
17.3	Watches from the Internet	445
17.4	Private Sales	447
	Keyword Index	448
	Bibliography	449