

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	xi
------------------------------	----

Introduction

Media education goes to school: Gathering together the threads	1
Intersecting frames of knowledge production	4
Knowledge production made tangible	10
Layout of the book	16
Why this book matters	19
Notes	21

1 From protective to critical:

The trajectory of media education in the United States	23
Epistemological positions on media studies: Protection to celebration	24
Defining media education	30
In/formal media education: Corporate versus classroom	38
Absence of media education in American classrooms	42
Beyond fascination with technology	45
Conclusion	47
Notes	49

2 To whom does school belong?

Urban public education in neoliberalism	51
Development and decline of the urban school system	54
NYC points of transition	56
Urban concerns: How to educate poor students of color?	64
School reform	66
Conclusion	76
Notes	78

3 Knowing participants:

Ethical questions of feminist, qualitative research	79
Framing the research: Methods and organization	83
Conceptual methodological frames: Cultural studies and feminism	85
Trust, truth and knowing participants	89
Authority versus friendship: Shallow cover	96
Conclusion	98
Notes	100

4 “I mean, in what high school don’t they use media?”

Questioning media integration at LSHS	101
Media studies at LSHS	102
Defining media education	109
Video production	115
Integration across the curriculum.....	116
Conclusion.....	121
Notes	123

5 “It all depends on the person”:

The value of small, theme-based, education for underserved, inner-city youth	125
Definition and value of small schools	126
Definition and value of theme-based schools	130
Integration of theme.....	133
Understandings of labels: Underserved and inner city	135
Concerns within school: Interpersonal and architectural relationships	142
Conclusion.....	148
Notes	150

6 “That’s what they want and a lot of kids follow it”:

Representations and understandings of adolescence and education	151
Being a teenager: Media representations and personal experiences	153
Personal experiences: Education.....	168
Reflections from the first graduating class.....	170
Conclusion.....	173
Notes	175

7 Integrating media education:

What is missing, what is needed	177
Radical change needed	178
Necessary paradigm shifts.....	180
Notes on paradigm shifts in classrooms	184
Expanding meanings of “literacy”	191
Teacher training	197
Skills assessment and research.....	198
Conclusion.....	200

8 Conclusion:
Looking outside to understand the inside	203
The need to integrate media education	204
What change is needed	206
What students deserve	207
Community awareness: The “ghetto Rodeo Drive”	208
Conclusion.....	214
 Works Cited.....	 217
 Index.....	 227