

BLOGGING AS CHANGE

Transforming Science & Math Education
Through New Media Literacies

Edited by April Luehmann
& Raffaella Borasi

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
PART I. FRAMING	1
Chapter 1. The Focus of This Book	3
Chapter 2. The Lens Through Which We Looked	16
Chapter 3. The Ways We Studied Blogging	33
PART II. THE POWER OF CLASSROOM BLOGGING	61
Chapter 4. Inquiry-Based Learning: Goals and Challenges	63
Chapter 5. Engaging Students in Co-Construction of Knowledge: The Case of a Pre-Calculus Classroom Blogging	69
Chapter 6. A First Step Toward Capitalizing on Blogging Learning Affordances: The Case of a Biology Classroom Blogging	101
Chapter 7. A Search for Best Practices in Science Classroom Blogging	113
Chapter 8. Recommendations for Using Classroom Blogging to Support Reform-Based Learning	134
PART III. THE POWER OF TEACHER BLOGGING	161
Chapter 9. Reform-Minded Teaching: Goals and Challenges	163
Chapter 10. Personal Agency in Professional Blogging: The Case of an Exceptional Urban Teacher Blogger	172
Chapter 11. Supporting Practicing Science Teachers' Growth: The Case of Blogging in the Context of an Action Research Seminar	206
Chapter 12. Supporting Pre-service Teachers' Development: The Case of Blogging in the Get Real! Science Teacher Preparation Program	236
Chapter 13. Recommendations for Using Blogging to Support Teacher Development	271
Chapter 14. Blogging as Change: A Look Across Studies	292

Appendix A. Taste of Blogging..... 305

Appendix B. Selected Data Tables..... 327

Appendix C. Participants’ Reflections on Blogging..... 343

References..... 351