

Table of Contents

Series Editor's Preface	ix
Introduction	1
Stuart Allan and Einar Thorsen
Section One: Eyewitness Crisis Reporting
1 Histories of Citizen Journalism Stuart Allan	17
2 The Taming of the Warblogs: Citizen Journalism and the War in Iraq Melissa Wall	33
3 Citizen Photojournalism during Crisis Events Sophia B. Liu, Leysia Palen, Jeannette Sutton, Amanda L. Hughes, and Sarah Vieweg	43
4 Wikinews Reporting of Hurricane Katrina Farida Vis	65
5 Citizen Journalism in India: The Politics of Recognition Prasun Sonwalkar	75

6	Human Rights and Wrongs: Blogging News of Everyday Life in Palestine Heba Zayyan and Cynthia Carter	85
7	Citizen Journalism in China: The Case of the Wenchuan Earthquake Joyce Y. M. Nip	95
8	Blogging the Climate Change Crisis from Antarctica Einar Thorsen	107

Section Two: Citizen Journalism and Democratic Cultures

9	The Iranian Story: What Citizens? What Journalism? Gholam Khiabany and Annabelle Sreberny	121
10	Citizen Journalism and Child Rights in Brazil Olga Guedes Bailey	133
11	OhmyNews: Citizen Journalism in South Korea Chang Woo Young	143
12	Globalization, Citizen Journalism, and the Nation State: A Vietnamese Perspective An Nguyen	153
13	Citizen Journalism and the North Belgian Peace March Nico Carpentier, Ludo De Brabander, and Bart Cammaerts	163
14	Indymedia and the Law: Issues for Citizen Journalism Lee Salter	175
15	Citizen Media and the Kenyan Electoral Crisis Ethan Zuckerman	187
16	Citizen Journalism as Social Networking: Reporting the 2007 Australian Federal Election Axel Bruns, Jason Wilson, and Barry Saunders	197
17	Crisis Alert: Barack Obama Meets a Citizen Journalist Tom Fiedler	209

Section Three: Future Challenges

18	Citizen Journalism in the Global News Arena: China's New Media Critics Stephen D. Reese and Jia Dai	221
----	---	-----

19	User-Generated Content and Journalistic Values Jane B. Singer and Ian Ashman	233
20	Wiki Journalism Paul Bradshaw	243
21	The Future of Citizen Journalism Mark Deuze	255
	List of Contributors	265
	Index	271