

Contents

The Multi-Sided Ethnographer: Living the Field beyond Research

A Festschrift in Honour of Martin Sökefeld

Tim Burger, Usman Mahar, Pascale Schild and Anna-Maria Walter (eds.) 9

Acknowledgements 11

Editorial

Introducing the Multi-Sided Ethnographer

Anna-Maria Walter, Pascale Schild, Usman Mahar and Tim Burger 15

Section One: More-than Leisure

No Feierabend after Fieldwork?

Reflections in Retrospect

Eveline Dürr and Frank Heidemann 37

Hiking Ethnography

A Short Essay on Fieldwork Mobility on Foot

Sabine Strasser 55

Assembling Bits and Pieces

From Patchwork to Ethnography

Beatrice Odierna 73

The Travelling Carpet

Mobility, Trade and Identity along the Karakoram Highway

Alessandro Rippa 93

Section Two: More-than Kinship

Ethnography with a Faith Community

Oscillating between In- and Outsider

Deniz Coşan Eke 115

Family 'Opening' the Field

From Ethnographic Odds to Ethnographic Teamwork

Menahil Tahir 133

Giving Up the Field

When Friendships Outweigh Scholarship

Stephen Lyon 151

Section Three: More-than Representation

Constructing the Field or Cementing It?

On Partnership, Method and the Hardening of Ethnography

Lisa Burger and Tim Burger 167

Home/Transit

Martin Saxer 193

Fieldnotes

From Intimate Impressions to Academic Discourse
Magnus Treiber 217

Section Four: More-than Politics

Intimate Suspects

Politics of Fieldwork and Intimacy under State Surveillance
Pascale Schild 235

Agencies, Friendships, Nationalism and Anthropology

Fieldwork Experiences of Collaborative Research in Gilgit-Baltistan
Azam Chaudhary 259

Qurbāni

Nearness and Altruism as an Engaged Ethnographic Practice
Usman Mahar 281

Epilogue

From the Field, With Love

Anna Grieser, Anna-Maria Walter, Jacqueline Wilk, Sohaib Bodla and Clarissa Leopold 307

Appendix

Authors and Editors 321