

Table of contents

List of figures	13
List of tables	15
Acknowledgements	17
List of Names and Acronyms	19
Notes on the Contributors	25
Chapter 1: Introduction: Populism and ‘Periphery’ Reinhard Heinisch, Aneta Cekikj, and Klaudia Koxha	27
Chapter 2: Centrist and Radical Populism in Central and Eastern Europe Daniel Smilov and Ruzha Smilova	45
Chapter 3: Mapping Populism in the European Post-Transition Periphery Ashot Aleksanyan and Nane Aleksanyan	71
Chapter 4: Populism in Armenia: A Conceptual Framework and Its Application Simon Clarke	95
Chapter 5: The Specificities of Populism in Countries of Democratic Transition: Challenges for Armenia Ruben Elamiryan	117
Chapter 6: The Rotating Populist Discourses of Post-Soviet Georgia: The Nation, the State and the People (1991-2018) David Matsaberidze	139

Chapter 7: Populists Alone in the Government: The Case of Vetëvendosje in Kosovo	175
Avdi Smajlaj
Chapter 8: Populist Electorate without Populist Parties: The Curious Case of Montenegro	197
Nemanja Stankov
Chapter 9: In the Political Mainstream: Populism in Albania	221
Klaudia Koxha and Reinhard Heinisch
Chapter 10: Populism as a Technique of Power in Serbia	249
Slaviša Orlović and Despot Kovačević
Chapter 11: Populists in Government: The Case of IMRO-DPMNU's Rule in North Macedonia 2006-2016	271
Aneta Cekikj
Chapter 12: Populism in Bosnia and Herzegovina: "folksy" Politics in an Ethno-Nationalist Partocracy	299
Maja Savić-Bojanić	