

Contents

Introduction: The Forgotten Subject in Communication Studies	1
Peter Gentzel, Friedrich Krotz, Jeffrey Wimmer, and Rainer Winter
 Part I Subject Conceptions in Communication Studies Research and in the Light of Current Developments in Social and Cultural Studies
 How Does Communicating Constitute the Human Being? On the Subject Concept of Communication Studies in the Age of Digitally Mediatized Lifestyles	17
Friedrich Krotz
 The Subject of Communicative Action, Subjectivity and Subjectification	37
Hubert Knoblauch
 From Social Interaction to Digital Networking: Processes of Mediatization and the Transformations of the Self	55
Rainer Winter
 Materiality, Technology and the Subject: Elements of Critical Communication and Media Analysis	79
Peter Gentzel
 Media Use and Psychoanalysis: Theoretical and Empirical Perspectives	105
Jacob Johanssen

Subjectification in Datafied Societies: Dividualization as a Perspective on Communicative Negotiation Processes in Data-Driven Times	123
Jakob Hörtnagl
 Part II Empirical Analyses of the Meaning of Subjectivity and Identity in and for Digital Communication in Mediatized Worlds
The Narrated Self: Narrative Subject Constructions in the Sign of Medial and Socio-cultural Change	145
Christina Schachtner
From Subject to User: And Back?	171
Manfred Faßler
The History of Media-Based Technologies of the Self from Rousseau to Runtastic	191
Gerrit Fröhlich
Subject Staging and Communication Power Digital	209
Holger Herma and Laura Maleyka
On the Mediality of Pedagogical Relations and the Medial Side of Education	233
Kerstin Jergus
Friendzone Level 5000: Memes as Image-Mediated Practices of Subjectivation	253
Sascha Oswald	