

Contents

|                                                                                                                                                                                   |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Research methods and the discovery of insulinM. Bliss                                                                                                                  | 1   |
| The discovery of the oral treatment of diabetes mellitus withsulphonylureasW. Creutzfeldt                                                                          | 11  |
| Epidemiological research methodologies for the study of the aetiologyof IDDMG. Dahlquist                                                                           | 21  |
| Epidemiological research methodologies for NIDDMG. Dowse, P. Zimmet                                                                                                    | 37  |
| Methodological concerns in diagnosing the prediabetic stateS. M. Haffner                                                                                               | 57  |
| Genetic patterns of IDDM related to environmental factorsA.-G. Ziegler, E. Standl                                                                                      | 73  |
| Immune mechanisms of beta cell destruction in the prediabetic phaseof IDDM patients: research methodologies identifying susceptibleindividualsG. S. Eisenbarth | 89  |
| Interventions attempting at preventing or ameliorating the developmentof type 1 diabetesH. Kolb                                                                    | 105 |
| Assays for measuring proinsulin, insulin, and related peptidesA. S. Rudenski, N. J. Crowther, C. N. Hales                                                              | 119 |
| Assessment of insulin production and secretion dynamics in health anddisease, including diabetesH. Tillil                                                          | 133 |

Contents

|                                                                                                                               |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Methodologies in characterization and classification of prediabetic states to non-insulin-dependent diabetes mellitus (NIDDM) | 147 |
| H. Beck-Nielsen                                                                                                        |     |
| Research methodologies in hypoglycaemia: counterregulation phenomena and nerve/brain dysfunction                              | 171 |
| A. Maran, S. A. Amiel                                                                                                  |     |
| Methods in evaluating lipoprotein and triglyceride metabolism in diabetes                                                     | 191 |
| M.-R. Taskinen                                                                                                         |     |
| Research methodologies in the evaluation of intestinal glucose absorption and the concept of glycaemic index                  | 205 |
| K. Hermansen                                                                                                           |     |
| Evaluation of cardiac autonomic neuropathy by heart rate variability                                                          | 219 |
| H. Mølgaard, K. Hermansen                                                                                              |     |
| Methodologies in sodium-lithium countertransport as related to other cation transport systems in diabetes                     | 241 |
| P. A. Rutherford, T. H. Thomas                                                                                         |     |
| Methods in the assessment of transcapillary escape rate of plasma proteins                                                    | 255 |
| H.-H. Parving                                                                                                          |     |
| Measurement of advanced glycosylation endproducts                                                                             | 273 |
| R. Bucala, H. Vlassara, A. Cerami                                                                                      |     |
| Research methodologies in the evaluation of home glucose monitoring                                                           | 287 |
| B. Willms                                                                                                              |     |
| Measurements of glycated haemoglobin and other circulating glycated proteins                                                  | 299 |
| R. R. Little, D. E. Goldstein                                                                                          |     |
| Research methodologies in evaluating patient education in diabetes — to reflect on the goals of patient education             | 319 |
| I. Mühlhauser, U. Bott                                                                                                 |     |

|                                                                                                                                                          |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Research methodologies in diabetic retinopathyE. M. Kohner, V. Patel, R. Chibber                                                              | 333 |
| Methodologies to assess renal function in diabetes mellitusS. L. Jones, G. C. Viberti                                                         | 359 |
| Conducting clinical trials in diabetic eye diseaseR. Klein, B. E. K. Klein, S. E. Moss                                                        | 387 |
| Economic analysis in diabetesA. Haddix, E. Dasbach, S. Teutsch                                                                                | 405 |
| Research methodologies in connective tissue changesand diabetic skin diseaseTh. Danne                                                     | 417 |
| Measurement of extracellular fixed anionically charged moleculesA. Kofoed-Enevoldsen                                                          | 433 |
| Methods in measuring glucose transporters and insulin receptorsin target cells from humansO. Pedersen, P. H. Andersen, S. Lund, J. F. Bak | 449 |
| World Medical Association Declaration of Helsinki                                                                                                        | 463 |
| Subject index                                                                                                                                            | 467 |