

Contents

Preface	ix
Ljiljana Šarić Prepositions: a challenge for formal theories and Cognitive Grammar	1
* * * * *
Seiki Ayano P-Stranding derived by the pseudo passive and WH-movement	19
Ignasi Navarro i Ferrando Is function part of the literal meaning of English prepositions?	39
Viktor Pekar Perceptual and interactional semantic properties of projective prepositions	63
Donald F. Reindl Areal effects on the preservation and genesis of Slavic postpositions	85
Ada Rohde Prepositional usage and the English caused-position construction	101
Jouni Rostila In search of invisible prepositions: connections between Funktionsverbgefüge and aspectual periphrastics	125
Tatjana D. Šabanova, Luize V. Gazizova, Olga D. Dudočkina & Julia R. Jusupova In search of cross-linguistic regularities of conceptualizing space: evidence from some Slavic, Germanic, and Turkic languages	167

Ljiljana Šarić & Željka Brlobaš

Boundaries of the analysis of spatial prepositions in the framework of Prototype Semantics (exemplified by the preposition na in Croatian, Slovenian, Russian, and Polish)

207

Markéta Straňáková-Lopatková

Ambiguity of prepositional groups: classification, criteria and method for automatic processing

263

Jesse Tseng

Rethinking lexical and functional prepositions

283