

Contents

Contributors	vii
Preface: The soul of Germanic linguistics Irmengard Rauch – Gerald F. Carr	ix
The putative strengthening of glides in Gothic Charles M. Barrack	1
Latin influence on German word order: A discussion of Behaghel's theory Diana Chirita	9
Ambisyllabicity in Old English: A contrary view Robert D. Fulk	29
Machds, daß-ds wegkummds! The mystery of inflected complementizers Michael Getty	47
On the Old High German Medienverschiebung Kurt Gustav Goblirsch	63
Underspecification and the Old High German monophthongization Wayne Harbert	71
The phrase structure of partitives in High German Robert G. Hoeing	87
The reaction of monosyllables to apocope in German dialects Anatoly Liberman	99
Aspects of “headedness switching” in German, Dutch, and Danish verb complexes Erik J. Macki	135
Agreement and null subjects in Germanic and Romance Enrique Mallén	155

Articulatory phonology as a tool for explanation in historical phonology: The case of stop epenthesis in Germanic B. Richard Page	175
The Germanic i -umlaut revisited Herbert Penzl †	189
How Indo-European is Germanic? Edgar Polomé	197
Bag V: PC German Irmengard Rauch	207
Thematic hierarchies and the argument-structure-syntax interface: Evidence from germanic ditransitive verbs Rex A. Sprouse	227
Against the notion “metrical grammar” Robert P. Stockwell – Donka Minkova	243
Two-domain conditionals: Verb-first, integration, politeness Ilona Vandergriff	257
Coordinate ellipsis in German: Old problems from a new (minimalist) perspective John te Velde	275
The development of reduplicating verbs in Germanic Theo Vennemann gen. Nierfeld	297
Causative psych-verbs in the history of English Heidi Waltz	337
Index	345