

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
Chapter 1 Degeneration, Anti-Semitism, and the Enfreakment of Modernism	13
Chapter 2 Nathanael West's Aspiring Freakish Flâneurs	33
Chapter 3 "Well of Course, I Used to Be Absolutely Gorgeous, Dear": The Female Interviewer as Subject/Object in Djuna Barnes's Journalism	65
Chapter 4 Heredity, Transvestism, and the Limits of Self-Fashioning in Nightwood	87
Chapter 5 Horror, Melodrama, and Mutable Masculine Identity in Tod Browning's Films	109

Chapter 6 “This Thing I Long For I Know Not What”: Carson McCullers and the Melodrama of the Domesticated Freak	145
Conclusion: Deviance, Defiance, and the Problem of “Weirdness”	173
Afterword: The Freakish Flâneur Reconsidered	179
Bibliography	193
Index	207