

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
--------------------	---

Section I

1 Basic Conditions or Tenets—
An Overview	9
Respect	9
Boundaries	17
Readiness for Change	18
Expectations	19
Values	20
2 Conditions for Healing,
Growth, and Change	23
Confronting the Best and the Worst	23
Confronting the Irrational	23
Confronting Psychic Pain:
Negative and Positive	24
Taking a Risk	24
Action and Tough Love	26
Revision of Early Trauma through Positive New
Experience	27
3 The Practitioner's Role	31
Significance	31
A Model	31
Physician Know Thyself	33
Winning-Losing:
The Power Struggle	34
The Therapeutic Failure
and Resolution	35
4 Issues Relevant to Any
Therapeutic Relationship	37
The Contract	37
Contact	38
Interaction and Communication
Instructions
(Essential Qualities)	56
Alternatives	76
Separation and Termination ...	77
5 Conclusion	81

Section II—Questions and Answers

Betrayal and Attachment: What Can Practitioners Do When a Patient Resists Treatment that is Working?	89
How Should Practitioners Talk to Patients about Psychological Problems and Processes in the Context of CM Thinking and Treatment?	92
How Can Practitioners Guide and/or Support Patients through Psychological Events and Challenges?	95
How Can Practitioners Recognize and Deal with a Situation that is Beyond Their Knowledge or Capacity to Handle and Requires Assistance and Referral to Other Health Care Providers Including Hospitalization?	96
How Can Practitioners Deal Constructively With a Patient's Distrust, Skepticism, Disappointment, Criticism, and Anger Directed at Them?	98
How Should Practitioners Handle the Cessation of Treatment and/or Relationship?	99
How Should Practitioners Cope with "Difficult" Patients?	99
How Should Practitioners Handle Issues of Money and Missing Appointments?	101
How Can Practitioners Handle Inappropriate Sexual Approaches by Patients?	101
How Should Practitioners Handle Friendship with Patients In and Out of the Clinical Setting?	102
How Should Practitioners Handle Patients Who Put Them on a Pedestal?	102
How Should Practitioners Deal with People Who Are Insufficient in Specific Life Functions, Which in Themselves Will Create Further Emotional Problems?	103
How Can Practitioners Provide Nourishment to People Who Lacked it Early in Life?	107
How Should Practitioners Respond to Issues of Transference and Counter-transference	108
How Can Practitioners Extract the Essential or Correct from the Less Important or Incorrect?	109
How Can Practitioners Extract the Positive from What Seems Negative—Native Brilliance, or a Skill Acquired?	111
Should Practitioners Use Western Counseling Techniques and Approaches, or CM, or Both?	112
How Can Practitioners Safely Combine Lifestyle Management and CM Diagnosis?	113
When Should Practitioners Inform Important Others, Spouse, Parents, Relatives, and Other Therapists?	115
How Should Practitioners Advise Patients Who Are Doing Too Many Things, Seeing Too Many Practitioners?	115
How Can Practitioners Recognize Who is at Risk?	116
Epilogue	117
Notes	118
References	120
Index	122