

Contents

|                                                                                                                                     |            |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Tissue Engineering for Cardiac Regeneration. . . . .                                                                         | 1   |
| Roberto Gaetani, Pieter A. F. Doevendans, Elisa Messinaand Joost P. G. Sluijter                                                 |            |
| Inherently Bio-Active Scaffolds: Intelligent Constructsto Model the Stem Cell Niche . . . . .                           | 29  |
| Paolo Di Nardo, Marilena Minieri, Annalisa Tirella, Giancarlo Forteand Arti Ahluwalia                                           |            |
| Strategies for Myocardial Tissue Engineering: The Beat Goes On. . . .                                                        | 49  |
| Payam Akhyari, Mareike Barth, Hug Aubin and Artur Lichtenberg                                                                       |            |
| Creating Unique Cell Microenvironments for the Engineeringof a Functional Cardiac Patch . . . . .                       | 81  |
| Tal Dvir, Jonathan Leor and Smadar Cohen                                                                                            |            |
| Intramyocardial Stem Cell Transplantation Without TissueEngineered Constructs: The Current Clinical Situation . . . . . | 95  |
| Peter Donndorf and Gustav Steinhoff                                                                                                 |            |
| Tissue Engineered Myocardium. . . . .                                                                                        | 111 |
| Wolfram-Hubertus Zimmermann                                                                                                         |            |
| Injectable Materials for Myocardial Tissue Engineering . . . . .                                                             | 133 |
| Jennifer M. Singelyn and Karen L. Christman                                                                                         |            |
| Tissue Engineering Approaches for Myocardial Bandage:Focus on Hydrogel Constructs . . . . .                             | 165 |
| Marie Noëlle Giraud and Hendrik Tevaearai                                                                                           |            |

|                                                                                                                                                                    |            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Engineering of Multifunctional Scaffolds for Myocardial Repair Through Nanofunctionalization and Microfabrication of Novel Polymeric Biomaterials . . . . . | 187 |
| Elisabetta Rosellini, Caterina Cristallini, Niccoletta Barbani and Paolo Giusti                                                                                    |            |
| Electrospun Nanocomposites and Stem Cells in Cardiac Tissue Engineering . . . . .                                                                           | 215 |
| Jorge A. Genovese, Cristiano Spadaccio, Alberto Rainer and Elvio Covino                                                                                            |            |
| Heart Valve Tissue Engineering. . . . .                                                                                                                     | 243 |
| Adrian H. Chester, Magdi H. Yacoub and Patricia M. Taylor                                                                                                          |            |
| Author Index . . . . .                                                                                                                                      | 267 |