

Contents

1	Pandemics as Matter of a System Crisis—Precarity of Society	1
2	Preparing the Ground for an Economic Perspective	5
3	Approaching an Understanding of Society: Property—Ownership	11
4	The Pandemic—Also a Welcome Distraction	23
5	Limitations: Decision Making Under the Condition of Uncertainty and with Limited Knowledge	27
6	The Constitutional State Without Constitution	29
7	From ‘Social Contract’ to Contract Society	35
8	Competition Society—the State of Law as State of the Fittest	37
9	Motherly Encouragement: We Can Do It!	43
10	The Corona State, Defining Itself	57
10.1	Some Economic Questions	57
10.1.1	Economy—Limits to the Analysis	57
10.1.2	A Spiritual-Economic Turn?	68
10.1.2.1	Excursus: The Tragedy of the Media—Their Abuse as Means of Mediating Sedation—The Larger Tragedy is the Cal(a)m(ity) of Communication	70
10.1.3	Phasing—More Than a Chronology	74

10.1.3.1	Initial Phase	74
10.1.3.2	Initial Phase 2	75
10.1.3.3	Accommodation	75
10.1.3.4	First Relief	80
10.1.3.5	Re-Accommodation	80
10.1.3.6	Settlement in Uncertainty and Precarity	82
10.1.4	Economics—not Even Changing the Wineskins	83
10.2	Lost lives—lost living?	86
10.3	Economy and Society	92
11	Finale	95
12	Afterthought	101
13	The True Virus Hiding Behind Covid19—an Adjunct Essay	103
13.1	Introduction	104
13.2	My Life With the Corona Virus—The Early Days	104
13.3	Visiting Europe Again	104
13.4	Oh Folks, Remain Realist	105
13.5	Every Little Counts—The Common Good	106
13.6	Freedom and the Control of the Individual that Lacks Insight Into Necessities	110
13.7	Grounding	122
	References	133