

Inhaltsverzeichnis. — Contents.

Allgemeine Maßnahmen und Bestimmungen bei der Aufarbeitung von Pflanzenmaterial.
Von K. PAECH	1
A. Aufbewahrung und Konservierung des Untersuchungsgutes	1
B. Die Angabe von Analysenresultaten und die Bezugsgrößen	5
C. Die Aufteilung des Untersuchungsmaterials in Fraktionen	10
I. Allgemeines	10
II. Fraktionierung der Zellkomponenten	12
III. Chemische Fraktionen	16
D. Aufarbeitung unter Schutz von Sauerstoff	19
E. Bestimmung der Trockensubstanz und des Wassergehaltes	21
Literatur	25
General Methods for Separation. Making and Handling Extracts. By N. W. PIRIE	26
A. Disintegration of Tissues	26
1. Mechanical Methods	26
2. Enzymic Disintegration	29
3. Chemical Disintegration	30
4. Comparison of Methods of Subdivision	30
5. Terminology	31
B. The Preparation and Concentration of Extracts	31
I. The Preparation of Extracts	31
II. Concentration of Extracts	33
1. Free Evaporation	34
2. Distillation in Vacuo	34
3. Freezing	36
4. Ultrafiltration	37
C. Procedures Used in Fractionation	38
I. Dialysis	38
II. Centrifugation	40
III. Precipitation from Aqueous Solution	46
D. Drying	49
1. Drying at Room Temperature or Above	49
2. Freeze-drying or Drying by Sublimation	51
3. The Determination of Dry Matter	53
References	54
Electrical-Transport Methods. By R. L. M. SYNGE	55
I. Principles	56
1. Control of Environmental Solution and of Conductivity	57
2. Electrical Transport in Presence of Immobilizing Agents and Membranes	57
II. Apparatus and Procedures	58
1. Fractionations without Added Electrolyte	58
2. Fractionations with Added Electrolyte	58
References	64
Multiplikative Verteilung. Von E. HECKER	66
A. Grundlagen der Methoden	66
I. Der NEERNSTsche Verteilungssatz; Parameter der Verteilung	66
II. Bestimmung von Verteilungskoeffizienten	70

B. Verfahren der multiplikativen Verteilung	73
C. Apparaturen	79
I. Apparaturen für Verfahren mit schubweise bewegten Phasen	79
II. Apparaturen für Verfahren mit gleichförmig bewegten Phasen	83
D. Auswahl von Lösungsmittelsystemen	87
E. Die CRAIG-Verteilung als Methode zur Reinheitsprüfung	90
Literatur	93
Die chromatographische Analyse in Säulen. Von G. BRAUNITZER	95
A. Allgemeiner Teil	95
I. Die Arten der chromatographischen Trennung	95
II. Die drei Typen der Entwicklung der Banden bei der chromatographischen Analyse	97
III. Apparate und allgemeine Methodik	99
B. Spezieller Teil	106
I. Die Durchführung der Adsorptionsanalyse	106
II. Die Durchführung der Verteilungsanalyse	112
III. Die Durchführung der Austauschanalyse	117
Bibliographie	125
Literatur	126
Papierchromatographie. Von H. HELLMANN	127
A. Allgemeine Beschreibung	128
B. Zubehör	130
I. Das Papier	130
II. Die Entwicklungskammer	132
III. Das Lösungsmittel	137
C. Vorbereitung der Substanz und Durchführung der Papierchromatographie	142
D. Die Auswertung der Chromatogramme	144
E. Quantitative Papierchromatographie	147
Literatur	148
Colorimetric, Absorptimetric and Fluorimetric Methods. By J. GLOVER	149
A. Laws of Absorption	150
Nomenclature of Absorption Curves	151
B. Colorimetry	152
I. Comparison with a Series of Liquid Standards	153
II. Balancing Method	154
III. Comparison with Solid Standards	156
IV. General Precautions in Colorimetric Techniques	157
C. Filter Photometry	157
I. Single Photocell Colorimeters	158
II. Two Photocell Colorimeters	161
1. Optically Balanced Type	162
2. Electrically Compensated	166
III. Diffraction Grating Colorimeters	168
IV. Errors in Photometric Analysis	170
D. Spectrophotometry	172
I. Visible and Ultra-violet Regions	173
1. Light Source	173
2. Dispersion System	174
3. Photometric Systems	175
4. Errors in Spectrophotometry	189
5. Applications of Spectrophotometry	200
II. Infrared Spectrophotometry	218
1. Instrumentation	219
2. Preparation of Samples	223
3. Operation of the Infrared Spectrophotometer	225
4. Applications of Infrared Spectroscopy	228

E. Fluorimetry and Fluorospectrophotometry.	235
1. General Procedure	235
2. Factors Affecting Fluorescence in Solution	236
3. Quantitative Fluorimetry	237
References	241
Refraktometrie und Interferometrie. Von G. KORTÜM und M. KORTÜM-SEILER	245
A. Theoretische Grundlagen	245
B. Refraktometrie	251
I. Meßprinzip	251
II. Einzelne Geräte	251
1. PULFRICH-Refraktometer	251
2. ABBE-Refraktometer	255
3. JELLEY-Refraktometer	258
III. Skalenmethode zur Untersuchung von Diffusionsvorgängen	260
IV. TÖPLERSche Schlierenmethode	260
C. Interferometrie	264
I. Interferenz durch Beugung	264
II. Interferenz durch Mehrfachreflexion	269
1. Interferometer nach JAMIN	270
2. Anordnung nach MACH	271
3. Das MICHELSONSche Interferometer	271
III. Untersuchung von Diffusions- und Wanderungsvorgängen	271
Literatur	276
Polarimetrie. Von G. KORTÜM und M. KORTÜM-SEILER	278
A. Theoretische Grundlagen	278
B. Herstellung von polarisiertem Licht	282
I. Linear polarisiertes Licht	282
II. Elliptisch- und zirkular-polarisiertes Licht	285
C. Experimentelle Bestimmung der optischen Drehung	286
I. Meßprinzip	286
II. Verschiedene Ausführungsformen von visuellen Polarimetern	288
III. Einzelheiten zur Meßtechnik	291
IV. Polarimetrie im ultravioletten Spektralbereich	292
V. Bestimmung des Zirkulardichroismus	296
VI. Polarimetrie im infraroten Spektralbereich	297
Literatur	298
Nephelometrie. Von G. KORTÜM und M. KORTÜM-SEILER	299
A. Allgemeines	299
B. Methodisches	301
I. Trübungsmessungen	301
II. Streuungsmessungen	301
Literatur	304
Principles of Biological Assay. By M. J. R. HEALY	305
A. The Nature of a Biological Assay	305
B. Direct Assays	306
C. Indirect Assays with a Quantitative Response	308
I. Response Linearly Related to the Logarithm of the Dose	308
1. Computation of the 6-point Assay	309
2. The 4-point Assay	311
II. Response Linearly Related to the Dose	312
III. The Use of Homogeneous Groups of Subjects	313
1. Estimation of Error in Randomized Block Assays	315
2. Latin Squares, Cross-over Designs, Incomplete Blocks	316
IV. The Planning of Assays with a Quantitative Response	317
D. Indirect Assays with a Quantal Response	318
I. Calculation of a Probit Assay	319
II. Alternative Methods for Evaluating Quantal Assays	323

E. The Conduct of Biological Assays	323
References	324
Methods of Involving Labelled Atoms. By J. GLOVER	325
A. Methods for Radioactive Isotopes	325
I. Detection of Radioactive Isotopes	326
1. Electroscopes	327
2. GEIGER-MÜLLER Counters	332
3. Proportional Counters	337
4. Gas Counting	339
5. Scintillation Counters	343
II. Sample Preparation	344
1. Material and Sampling	344
2. The Preparation of the Radioactive Gas for Filling the Counter Tube	349
III. Correction Procedures	351
1. Geometrical Efficiency and Standardisation	351
2. Other Count Corrections	353
3. Assessment of Error Due to Statistical Variations	355
4. Corrections for Decay of the Radioactive Source	355
VI. Autoradiographic Methods	356
1. Autoradiography of Large Tissue Sections and Paper Chromatograms	357
2. Autoradiography of Histological Sections	358
3. Quantitative Estimation of Radioactive Substances Distributed in Histological Sections and in Paper Chromatograms	359
V. Disposal of Radioactive Waste and Health Hazard	361
B. Methods for Stable Isotopes	361
I. Indirect Methods for Deuterium	361
Preparation and Purification of Water Samples for Analysis	363
II. Mass Spectrometric Method	364
1. Apparatus	365
2. Sources of Error	366
3. Examination of Samples	368
4. Method of Calculating and Presenting Results	372
References	372
Estimation of pH Values (Living Tissues and Saps). By J. SMALL	375
A. The New pH	375
B. Electrometric Methods	377
I. Substances	377
II. Apparatus	377
III. Method	378
IV. Other Electrodes	381
C. Indicator Methods	383
I. Indicator Papers	383
II. Comparators	383
III. Capillators	385
IV. SMALL's Range Indicator Method (1926)	385
V. Micromanipulation	391
VI. Natural Indicators	391
References	392
Oxidation-Reduction Potentials. By ROBERT HILL	393
A. Measurement of Oxidation-Reduction Potentials	394
1. The Hydrogen Electrode	394
2. The rH Scale	396
3. Oxidation-Reduction Equilibria	397
4. The Relation of the E'_0 and r'H Values of Systems to Change in pH	398
5. Oxidation-Reduction Titration Curves at Constant pH	399
6. Buffer Systems for Oxidation-Reduction Potentials and Indicator Dyes for rH	401
7. The Oxygen Electrode	402

B. Experimental Methods	403
I. General Type of Apparatus Required	403
II. Application of Oxidation-Reduction Electrode Potential Measurements for Determination of Reaction Rates	405
C. Properties of Some Individual Systems	407
1. Haem Compounds	407
2. Flavines and Coenzymes	409
3. Benzoquinones	409
4. Naphthoquinones	410
5. Ascorbic Acid	411
6. Glutathione	411
References	413
Gasometric Analysis in Plant Investigation (WARBURG, VAN SLYKE, Microdiffusion Methods and Ethylene). By R. H. KENTEN	415
A. The WARBURG Constant Volume Respirometer and other Manometers	415
I. The Apparatus and its Calibration	415
II. Methods in Analysis	417
III. Respiration and Photosynthesis	420
IV. Some Other Types of Manometric Apparatus	425
1. The BARCROFT and Other Differential Respirometers	425
2. Constant Pressure Respirometers	426
3. HEATLEY's Membrane Microrespirometer	426
4. Capillary Ultramicrorespirometry	427
5. Cartesian Diver	427
Summary	428
B. The Measurement of Oxygen and Carbon Dioxide Exchange in Respiration and Photosynthesis	428
C. Extraction and Analysis of Gas from Plant Tissue and Sap	431
D. The VAN SLYKE Manometric Apparatus	432
I. Principle and Procedure	432
II. Determination of Free α -Amino-acids with Ninhydrin	433
III. Determination of Other Substances	436
E. Microdiffusion Methods	438
I. Apparatus and Procedure	438
II. Determination of Ammonia	439
III. Determination of Other Substances	441
F. Ethylene	444
I. Distribution	444
II. Methods of Detection	445
III. Quantitative Determination	446
IV. Chemical Identification	449
References	450
Cytochemical Methods. By F. R. WHATLEY	452
A. Methods for Microscopic Examination of Tissue Sections	452
I. Methods of Obtaining Tissue Sections	453
II. Physical Methods of Examination	454
1. Polarising Microscope	454
2. Phase Contrast Microscope	455
3. Fluorescence Microscopy	455
4. Light Absorption Method	456
5. X-Ray Absorption Spectroscopy	456
6. Microincineration	456
7. Electron Microscopy	457
8. Radioautography	457
III. Chemical Methods of Examination	457

B. Methods Involving the Separation of Cell Constituents	460
I. Methods Using Single Cells	460
1. Analysis of Vacuole Contents	461
2. Microdissection of Cells	461
3. Separation of Individual Cells from Tissues	461
4. Chemical Analysis	461
II. Large Scale Mechanical Separation of Cell Constituents	462
1. Isolation of Nuclei	463
2. Isolation of Mitochondria	463
3. Isolation of Microsomes	464
4. Isolation of Chloroplasts	464
C. General Conclusions	465
References	466
Mineral Components and Ash Analysis. By E. C. HUMPHRIES	468
A. Introduction	468
1. Occurrence of Ash Constituents	468
2. Sampling Plant Material	468
3. Grinding Plant Samples	469
B. General Preparations	470
I. Ashing Plant Material	470
1. Dry Ashing	471
2. Sulphated Ash	471
3. Ashing with Alkali	472
4. Wet Digestion	472
II. Concentration Methods for Detection and Estimation of Trace Elements	473
1. 8-Hydroxyquinoline Method	473
2. 8-Hydroxyquinoline, Tannic Acid and Thionalide	474
3. Diphenylthiocarbazone (Dithizone) Method	474
C. Methods of Analysis	474
1. The Flamephotometer	474
2. The Polarograph	476
D. Detection and Estimation of the Major Elements	477
I. Calcium	477
II. Magnesium	477
III. Total Nitrogen	479
IV. Nitrate	481
V. Nitrite	483
VI. Potassium	483
VII. Sodium	485
VIII. Sulphur	486
IX. Chloride	487
X. Phosphorus	487
E. Determination of the Trace Elements	488
I. Aluminium	489
II. Boron	490
III. Cobalt	491
IV. Copper	492
V. Iron	495
VI. Manganese	495
VII. Molybdenum	496
VIII. Selenium	498
IX. Zinc	499
References	502
Sachverzeichnis (deutsch-englisch)	503
Subject Index (English-German)	523