

Contents

Acknowledgements — V

Victoria Guillén-Nieto, Antonio Doval Pais and Dieter Stein

Chapter 1

Emotion, language and law — 1

Dyango Bonsignore

Chapter 2

The dangerous individual in a time of migration: Periculum, dominium and dangerousness — 23

Monika S. Schmid

Chapter 3

Language attrition as a problem for language analysis for the determination of origin — 49

Laura M. Hartwell

Chapter 4

“Once an alien has passed through our gates”: Noncitizens in three US Supreme Court oral arguments — 63

Mary C. Lavissière and Rachel C. Hill

Chapter 5

Improper entry by an alien on trial: the uncomfortable linguistic past of 8 United States Code § 1325 & 1326 — 85

Jūratė Ruzaitė

Chapter 6

Impoliteness categories in hateful online comments targeting migrants in Lithuania — 117

Fabienne Baider

Chapter 7

Covert Islamophobia and anti-Semitism via conspiracy theory — 149

VIII — Contents

Victoria Guillén-Nieto

Chapter 8

The wording of hate speech prohibition: “You can’t see the wood for the trees” — 173

Antonio Doval Pais

Chapter 9

When the wording of the law is not enough: Hate speech crimes in Spain — 201

Subject index — 231