

Table of contents

1	Introduction.....	1
1.1	Outline of the Issue	1
1.2	Objective	2
1.3	Methodology	2
2	Terminology and topical confinement	3
2.1	Brand	3
2.2	Marketing	4
2.3	B-to-B-Marketing and its characteristics	4
2.4	Neuromarketing and its limitations	6
2.5	Prospects of Neuromarketing	7
3	Basics of and findings from Neuromarketing	9
3.1	Structure and functioning of the human brain.....	9
3.1.1	The limbic system	9
3.1.1.1	Hippocampus and memory	10
3.1.1.2	Amygdala and emotions.....	11
3.1.2	Cognitive processing patterns	12
3.1.2.1	Consciousness – an exceptional state of the brain	12
3.1.2.2	Comparison with the unconscious	14
3.1.3	Information processing in the brain	15
3.1.3.1	Attention and involvement.....	15

3.1.3.2	Learning of advertising messages.....	16
3.1.3.3	The processing of a buying decision	17
3.2	Codes/cues – the four doorways to the customer’s brain	20
3.2.1	Code no. 1: Language.....	22
3.2.2	Code no. 2: Stories	22
3.2.3	Code no. 3: Symbols.....	23
3.2.4	Code no. 4: Sensory stimuli.....	23
3.3	Motives and motive systems	24
3.3.1	The three basic motives	25
3.3.2	The Limbic® approach.....	26
4	Implications of Neuromarketing for B-to-B-Marketing.....	28
4.1	Neuromarketing in regard to B-to-B characteristics.....	28
4.1.1	Derived demand.....	28
4.1.2	Factually rational decision-making criteria	29
4.1.3	Formalized decision processes	30
4.1.4	Collective decisions.....	30
4.1.5	Small number of buyers.....	32
4.1.6	Frequent and personal interaction	32
4.1.7	Long-term business relationships	32
4.1.8	Summary of the comparison.....	33
4.2	Implications for brand management.....	34

4.2.1	Brand's effect on the brain.....	34
4.2.2	Emotionality of brands.....	35
4.2.3	Characteristics of strong brands.....	36
4.2.4	Creating a strong brand.....	37
4.2.5	Brand management in B-to-B.....	39
4.2.6	Brand communication in B-to-B.....	40
5	Application of Neuromarketing at Siemens.....	41
5.1	Siemens corporate brand strategy.....	42
5.1.1	Autonomy.....	43
5.1.2	Security.....	44
5.1.3	Excitement.....	44
5.2	Implementation of Neuromarketing at Siemens.....	45
5.2.1	Verbal codes.....	45
5.2.2	Episodic codes.....	48
5.2.3	Symbolic and sensory codes.....	48
5.3	Examples from Siemens' "Answer" campaign.....	49
5.3.1	Paradoxical approach example.....	49
5.3.2	Personal approach example.....	50
6	Conclusion.....	52
7	Reference list.....	53
	List of Figures.....	58

List of Tables 59

Glossary 60