

---

Contents

Contributors . . . . .	VII
Preface . . . . .	VIII

Kay Donahue Jennings

Early Development of Mastery Motivation and Its Relation to the Self-Concept . . . . .	1
Operationalizing Mastery Motivation . . . . .	2
Development of Mastery Motivation . . . . .	5
Relationship between Motivation and Self-Concept . . . . .	9
References . . . . .	10

Paul Lütkenhaus, Merry Bullock

The Development of Volitional Skills . . . . .	14
Empirical Study of Young Children's Volitional Skills . . . . .	15
Developmental Mechanisms . . . . .	19
Conclusion . . . . .	22
References . . . . .	22

Matty van der Meulen

Toddlers' Self-Concept in the Light of Early Action Theory . . . .	24
Developmental Research on the Self-Concept . . . . .	25
Self-Reference in Natural Speech of Toddlers . . . . .	27
Conclusions . . . . .	34
References . . . . .	35

Claire B. Kopp

Young Children's Progression to Self-Regulation . . . . .	38
Role of Caregivers . . . . .	40
Cognitive Mechanisms . . . . .	44
Conclusion . . . . .	51
References . . . . .	51

Donna L. Bradshaw, Hiroshi Usui, Kazuo Miyake, Rosemary G. Campos,
Joseph J. Campos

Cross-Cultural Differences in Maternal Control Communications and Child Compliance: Japan and the USA . . . . .	55
Parental Controls and Child Compliance . . . . .	55
Early Socialization for Compliance in Japan . . . . .	57
Cross-Cultural Investigation of Control and Compliance . . . . .	58
Conclusions . . . . .	63
Acknowledgment . . . . .	66
References . . . . .	66

Clemens Trudewind

Commentary: The Interplay of Motivation and Cognition in the Early Development of Intentional Actions . . . . .	69
Motivation . . . . .	70
Motivation and Cognitive Representation . . . . .	71
Self-Concept . . . . .	73
Self-Regulation versus Self-Direction in Adapting to Standards . . . . .	74
Conclusion . . . . .	76
References . . . . .	76
Subject Index . . . . .	79