

Contents

Acknowledgements — VII

Ilios Willemars and Niall Martin

Preamble: Why Replacement? — 1

Niall Martin and Ilios Willemars

Introduction: Replaceability and the Politics of the Paradigm — 13

Signs and Semiotics

Niall Martin

Ir/Replaceability, Il/Literacy and the Decolonization of the Alphabet: The Lessons of Arrival — 31

Emilio A. Aguilar

Environmental Pareidolia: Computer Vision and the Replacement of the Unpredictable — 49

Murray Pratt

‘What If?’: Reading Replacing in/as (Contemporary, Chinese, Science) Fiction — 69

Subject to Replacement

Reij Rosello

Old Soles and Rotting Bananas: How to Grieve what we Replace? — 91

Sara Magno

The Ir/Replaceability of the Witness-Perpetrator in Salomé Lamas’s No Man’s Land — 111

Alessandra Benedicty-Kokken

The Ir/Replaceable and “Walking in the Rays of a Beautiful Sun”: Dante Alighieri’s and Aimé Césaire’s Deployments of the Solar — 131

Celia Graham-Dixon

From Stage to Screen: A Feminist Aesthetic Approach to Samuel Beckett's
Not I on Television — 157

Psyche and Sacrifice

Naomi Segal

Puppets and People, from Kleist to Stelarc — 173

Marc Amfreville

A Poetics of Ersatz: Ersatzbildung in Freud and Hoffmann — 191

Ilios Willemars

Sacrificial Animals and their Placeholders: Symbolic Irreplaceability in Hugo von Hofmannsthal's "Das Gespräch über Gedichte" — 209

Coda

Ilios Willemars and Niall Martin

Modernity's Irreplaceability: Data, Derivatives, and the Fungibility of the Flesh — 227

About the Contributors — 245

Index — 247