

Contents

1 Sexual Conduct and Peacekeeping	1
1.1 Background to the Research	3
1.2 Purpose and Scope of the Book	5
1.3 Methodology	7
1.4 Structure of the Book	9
2 UN Peacekeeping Operations: The Emerging Problem of Sexual Exploitation	13
2.1 Introduction	13
2.2 The Origins and Development of UN Peacekeeping Operations from the League of Nations Through to the End of the Cold War . .	14
2.3 The Multi-Dimensional Nature of UN Peacekeeping Operations After 1990: The Case of Bosnia and Herzegovina	19
2.4 The Profile of Peacekeepers: Who Are They?	26
2.5 The Profile of Beneficiaries and UN Peacekeeping Operations: Who Are Peacekeepers Protecting?	31
2.6 The Problem of Sexual Exploitation in UN Peacekeeping Operations	33
2.7 Conclusions	37
3 The Secretary-General's Bulletin: Evolution and Reception	39
3.1 Introduction	39
3.2 Phase 1: Ad hoc Mission-Level Responses to Allegations of Sexual Exploitation	40
3.3 Phase 2: Attempts at Coordinated Responses Within the UN System	43
3.4 Phase 3: The Adoption of a Comprehensive 'Zero Tolerance Policy'	46
3.4.1 The Adoption of the SGB	46
3.4.2 Sexual Relationships	50
3.4.3 Prostitution	58

3.4.4	Conclusions	68
3.5	Responses to the 'Zero Tolerance Policy' by Researchers	69
3.6	Conclusions	76
4	Research Background, Aims and Methods	79
4.1	Introduction	79
4.2	Gender Politics in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BH)	80
4.2.1	Brief History of the Creation of the State of BH	80
4.2.2	Gender Politics and Sexual Norms Before the Conflict in BH	82
4.2.3	Gender and Sexual Violence in BH During the Conflict	85
4.2.4	Gender Politics During the Post-conflict Transitional Period	86
4.2.5	Positioning Myself Within the Research	88
4.3	Aims and Methods	90
4.3.1	Aims and Methodology	91
4.3.2	Designing the Interview Questions	94
4.3.3	Ethical Considerations	96
4.3.4	Finding the Interviewees	97
4.3.5	Conducting the Research	100
4.3.6	Research Challenges and Limitations	103
4.4	Conclusions	107
5	Sexual Relationships in UN Peacekeeping Operations	109
5.1	Introduction	109
5.2	Group A	110
5.2.1	The Reasons for Entering into Their Relationships	111
5.2.2	Expectations from Their Relationships	113
5.2.3	'Inherently Unequal Power'	114
5.2.4	UN Credibility and Integrity	118
5.2.5	Response to 'Strong Discouragement' of Sexual Relationships	119
5.2.6	Conclusions	120
5.3	Group B	121
5.3.1	Perceptions of Reasons for UN Staff Entering into Relationships	122
5.3.2	Perceptions of Reasons for Local Women Entering into Relationships	123
5.3.3	'Inherently Unequal Power'	125
5.3.4	UN Credibility and Integrity	126
5.3.5	Response to 'Strong Discouragement' of Relationships	127
5.3.6	Conclusions	129
5.4	Group C	130
5.4.1	'Inherently Unequal Power'	131
5.4.2	UN Credibility and Integrity	133
5.4.3	Response to 'Strong Discouragement' of Relationships	136
5.4.4	Conclusions	138
5.5	Conclusions	140

6 Sexual Exploitation and Prostitution in UN Peacekeeping Operations 145

6.1 Introduction 145

6.2 Group A 146

6.2.1 Defining Sexual Exploitation 146

6.2.2 Whether Prostitution Is Sexual Exploitation 147

6.2.3 Perspectives on the SGB’s Approach to Sexual Exploitation and Prostitution 149

6.2.4 Conclusions 149

6.3 Group B 150

6.3.1 Defining Sexual Exploitation 150

6.3.2 Whether Prostitution Is Sexual Exploitation 151

6.3.3 Perspectives on the SGB’s Approach to Sexual Exploitation and Prostitution 152

6.3.4 Conclusions 153

6.4 Group C 153

6.4.1 Defining Sexual Exploitation 154

6.4.2 Whether Prostitution Is Sexual Exploitation 156

6.4.3 Perspectives on the SGB’s Approach to Sexual Exploitation and Prostitution 159

6.4.4 Conclusions 160

6.5 Conclusions 160

7 Rethinking ‘Sexual Exploitation’ in UN Peacekeeping Operations . . 165

7.1 Introduction 165

7.2 Distinguishing Between Exploitative and Non-Exploitative Sex in UN Peacekeeping Operations 166

7.3 Looking Ahead: Implications for UN Policymakers 168

Bibliography 175