

Contents

Foreword by the Editors — V

Part I

Western Countries between Collaboration, Neutrality and Resistance

Lars Dencik

Considerate Collaborationism: If You Can't Beat Them, Join Them. On Rationales behind Four Nordic Countries' Very Different Forms of Collaboration with Nazi Germany during World War II — 5

Valentina Sommella

France between Collaboration and Resistance. The Armistice Decision, the Montoire Meeting and Vichy's Ambiguous Stand between the Axis and the Allies — 33

Aspects of Collaboration in Central Europe: The Cases of Poland and Hungary

Stephan Lehnstaedt

A "Land without Quislings". Collaboration in Poland — 53

Alessandro Vagnini

The Hungarian Anti-Jewish Laws and Relations between Hungary and Germany — 69

Countries of Eastern Europe: Political Interests, Anti-Semitism and Military Support

Olaf Glöckner

The Collaboration of Ukrainian Nationalists with Nazi Germany — 83

Giuseppe Motta

Between Ideological Affinity and Economic Necessity. Romania and Nazi Germany before and during World War II — 99

Joachim Tauber

Collaboration in Lithuania — 121

Collaboration in Slavic and Balkan Countries

Martina Bitunjac

Between Racial Politics and Political Calculation. The Annihilation of Jews in the Slovak State and the Independent State of Croatia — 137

Björn Opfer-Klinger

Bulgaria's Collaboration with the Axis Powers in World War II — 161

Meinolf Arens and Katerina Kakasheva

War and Collaboration in Occupied Vardar Macedonia and West Banat 1941–1944 — 193

South European Case Studies: Greece, Italy and Portugal

Ioannis Zelepos

Collaboration in Greece 1941–1944 — 213

Ester Capuzzo

Italian “Racial Laws” and the Jewish Community of Fiume — 229

Fernando Clara

“Collaborating Neutrality”? Portuguese Collaboration Networks at the Secretariat of National Propaganda — 241

Reflections on Jewish “Cooperation” with the Nazis in Western and Eastern Europe

Julius H. Schoeps

Between Collaboration, Betrayal and Coercion. A Nightmarish Chapter of European-Jewish Relations under the Nazis — 263

Part II

Krisztián Ungváry

The Thesis that only Germans are to Blame – Well-Intended, but Unsustainable — 281

Serge Klarsfeld

The Most Extreme of all of the French State's Collaboration:
The Surrender of the Jews — 289

Tvrtko Jakovina

Being in Love with Traitors. Views on Collaboration during World War II in Several Balkan Countries after the End of the Cold War — 295

Franz Sz. Horváth

Traumas that do not End? Not Dealing with History in Hungary — 303

Imre Szakál

The Question of Collaboration and the Politics of Memory in Ukraine — 309

About the Authors — 315

Bibliography Categorized by Country — 321

Index of Persons — 341

Index of Places — 347