

Contents

Abbreviations — XI

1 Introduction — 1

- 1.1 Philosophy of technology: vagueness squared — 1
- 1.2 A flawed but promising history of the philosophy of technology — 9
- 1.3 Plan of the book — 13

2 Karl Marx: What machines do — 16

- 2.1 Rousseau's challenge — 16
- 2.2 Work and objectification — 18
- 2.3 From craftsman to machine appendage — 22
- 2.4 Frustrated objectification: alienation — 27
- 2.5 Marx and the Machine — 34
- 2.6 Marx as an Enlightenment Thinker — 39

3 Herbert Marcuse: One-Dimensional Man and the technological veil — 42

- 3.1 Introduction: Marcuse the Marxist — 42
- 3.2 Marcuse's pessimism: one-dimensional machine man and the happy consciousness — 48
- 3.3 The missing technics in Marcuse's reception — 54
- 3.4 Marcuse the optimist: the art of living and a new logos of technics — 59
- 3.5 Marcuse's challenge to value sensitive design in education — 65

4 Langdon Winner: Tools without handles — 70

- 4.1 A strange idea and ritual forswearings — 70
- 4.2 Forms of determinism — 77
- 4.3 Technology: Whose control, what mastery? — 82
- 4.4 The mechanics of autonomous technology – imperatives and reverse adaptation — 86
- 4.5 Caring for monsters — 92

5 Martin Heidegger: thinking beyond technology — 98

- 5.1 Heidegger's Mysticism — 98
- 5.2 Being — 102

5.3	Metaphysics and technology —	109
5.4	On being a thing and building for dwelling —	113
5.5	What to do? How to think? —	118
6	Albert Borgmann local technologies —	122
6.1	Technology: force and character —	122
6.2	A pattern of disengagement —	128
6.3	Things: orientation and the good life —	136
6.4	Reform and design as antidotes for akrasia —	146
7	John Dewey: The making of tools —	149
7.1	Introduction —	149
7.2	The inquiring organism and its tool of tools —	155
7.3	The world well built: a history of philosophers' view of technology and creation —	164
8	Bruno Latour: Networks and fabrications —	171
8.1	Introduction: from situations to networks —	171
8.2	The network behind reference to things —	179
8.3	Dummett and Latour on primitives and their images of reality —	187

Bibliography — 196

Index — 209