

Table of Contents

Table of Contents	V
Tables.....	XI
Images.....	XIII
Acknowledgements	XV
1. Introduction	1
1.1 Research topics and questions.....	3
1.1.1 First focus: Subject formation, space related performance and articulation of gender and sexual subjectivity	3
1.1.2 Second focus: LT+ negotiations at the intersection of faith and desire	5
1.1.3 The relevance of this research	7
1.2 Theoretical perspectives	8
1.2.1 Anthropological studies of gender and sexuality	8
1.2.2 Discourse, subject formation and identifications	11
1.2.3 Space-dependent ‘doing of identifications’	15
1.2.4 Stigma and marginality	16
1.2.5 Lived religion – Islam and homosexuality	18
1.3 Lesbi/ans and trans males in Indonesia: Some terms and remarks	22
1.3.1 Lesbi/an and trans male gender positions	22
1.3.2 Lesbi/an desire and sexuality	23
1.3.3 Non-activist/activist divides and global discourse	24
1.3.4 Categories and constraints.....	25
1.4 Structure of the book.....	27
2. Methodology and ethical challenges: Situatedness within a research field.....	29
2.1 Situated knowledge and reflexivity in social science research	30
2.1.1 (Feminist) Objectivity and vision	30
2.1.2 Positionality and subjugated knowledge	31
2.1.3 Positioning myself in fields of power	32
2.2 Translations from theory to practice: Anthropological research and ethical reflections	36
2.2.1 Preparation work, research design and methods	36

2.2.2 Applied ethics in methodological practice	38
2.2.3 After leaving Indonesia	47
3. State, religion and society: Shifting discourses and formations of gender and sexuality	51
3.1 State-driven discourses on gender and sexuality through modern history...	52
3.2 Plurality and dis-/continuities in practice	56
3.2.1 Gender and sexual diversity	57
3.2.2 Young people and sexual activity	60
3.2.3 Marriage.....	62
3.2.4 Employment and education	64
3.3 Islamic discourses on gender and (same-sex) sexuality	65
3.3.1 Islamic plurality and the position of religion in the state since New Order	66
3.3.2 Scriptural reasoning substantiating the incompatibility of Islam and same-sex desire.....	68
3.3.3 Practical consequences and activist ways of dealing with it.....	72
3.3.4 The muhrim concept and its effect on space	74
3.4 Javanese values and the city of Yogyakarta	76
3.4.1 Yogya Istimewa – Special Yogyakarta	77
3.4.2 Plural local Islam: Islam Java , further varieties and increasing normativity.....	78
3.4.3 Values of conduct: Hierarchy and self-constraint foster social harmony	82
I Intersections and negotiations: LT+ gender, body and desire in society	85
4. Lesbi/ans in Yogyakarta: General understandings, practices and challenges.....	87
Ethnographic vignette: Realizing the kontinuum lesbi	87
4.1 Performativity and the meaning of gender for lesbi/ans	91
4.1.1 Masculinity, performativity and butchi gender positions	91
4.1.2 Femininity, performativity and femme gender positions	95
4.1.3 Criticism towards gender labels – butchi ngondek	98
4.2 Coming of age as a lesbi/an : On perception, secrecy and self-acceptance in the light of stigma.....	102

4.2.1 Discovering desire: Curiosity and early crushes.....	106
4.2.2 Realizing desire as ongoing: Between excitement, uncertainty and difference.....	108
4.2.3 Facing desire: Change in perceptions and the phase of denial.....	111
4.2.4 Searching perspectives and finding space: Encountering the other Other.....	112
4.2.5 Coming in.....	117
4.2.6 Dealing with the unspeakable – practices of secrecy and desired identifications	118
4.3 Summary.....	126
5. Negotiating LT+ gender and desire in family and society.....	129
Ethnographic vignette: Olay's birthday party at her parents' house.....	130
5.1 Idealized femininity and gendered negotiations in space.....	135
5.1.1 Cultivating womanhood: Families as spaces for socializing 'good women'.....	138
5.1.2 Negotiating gender in public space.....	153
5.1.3 Gender at work and at educational institutions.....	156
5.1.4 Summary.....	162
The aspect of fluidity within theory.....	163
5.2 Ways of disclosure: Ketabuan and coming out.....	166
5.2.1 Ketabuan (being caught, being discovered).....	168
5.2.2 Coming out.....	178
5.2.3 Collectivity, seniority, patriarchy: ketabuan and coming out in summary.....	192
5.3 Summary: The kodrat wanita as blueprint for adequate womanhood.....	193
II Negotiating same-sex desire, Islamic religion and personal faith	195
Ethnographic vignette: Performance on 'being different'.....	196
6. Contested grounds: On the evaluation of same-sex desire in religion.....	199
6.1 Discourses rejecting same-sex desire and LGBT+ persons.....	200
6.1.1 The story of Lot.....	201
6.1.2 Further conflicting concepts: Sexual morality and societal silence.....	204

6.1.3 Interpretations about the causes of the desire: Infection, sin and Allah's Creation	206
6.2 Alternate perspectives challenging hegemonic narratives	210
6.2.1 Approaches to alternative knowledge	210
6.2.2 Difficulties in spreading alternate knowledges	215
6.3 Summary	217
7. Negotiating the incompatibility thesis: Dynamic identifications, religious practices, and LT+ experiences	219
7.1 Overview	220
7.2 Modes of negotiation	224
7.2.1 Compartmentalization	225
7.2.2 Turning away from organized religion	228
7.2.3 God's providence: Turning to and trusting Allah	234
7.2.4 Tolerance for ambiguity: Compensation, balance and personal responsibility	241
7.2.5 Integration via interpretation	246
7.3 Theoretical discussion: Modes of negotiation and desired identifications as agency	251
7.4 Summary	254
8. Un-Indonesian and un-religious: The creation of LGBT+ people as a social minority in discursive developments since 2014	255
8.1 Islam and Westernization as ideoscapes deployable by political forces	257
8.2 Political references to ideoscapes and changing power relations ordering majority-minority relations	258
8.2.1 From Colonialism to Reformasi : Ambivalence and restriction	259
8.2.2 Reformasi : Religious conservatism, human rights and diverging crossroads	261
8.2.3 Post- Reformasi since 2014: Rise and escalation of moral panic	264
8.3 Summary: From 'Unity in diversity' to 'Unity in morality'?	273
9. Conclusion	277
9.1 Key challenges for LT+ subjectivities	277
9.1.1 Heteronormativity and marriage	278
9.1.2 Family ties	279

9.1.3 Economic security and age.....	279
9.1.4 Religion and belief	280
9.1.5 Security matters, rights, and laws	280
9.2 Results and contributions of this research in light of theory	281
9.2.1 Marginality, stigma and sexual and gendered diversity: Becoming and living as a LT+ person	282
9.2.2 Identifications and fluid performances in space: Relating and delineating a multi-dimensional self to hegemony.....	284
9.2.3 The incompatibility thesis in light of lived religion: Pluralizing hegemonic interpretations and arranging a subjectivity intelligible for the self	287
Appendix.....	291
Images.....	293
Glossary.....	297
References.....	303