

Table of Contents

Abbreviations	XI
Preface	XIII
1 Introduction	1

PART I

2 Foundations of a Transcendental-Philosophical Approach to Islamic Theology	29
2.1 A Brief Overview of Descartes' Rational Theology and a Critical Assessment of his Cogito Argument	30
2.2 The Anthropological Turn of Theology in Kant's Critical Philosophy	37
2.3 Kant and Descartes on the existence of the "I"	48
2.4 Fichte's Transcendental Philosophy	54
2.4.1 Introduction to Fichte's Concept of the Self-Positing "I"	54
2.4.2 The Primacy of Practical Reason in Fichte's Account of Subjectivity	61
2.4.3 The Formal Unconditionality of the "I" in Fichte's Account of Subjectivity	63
2.4.4 A Philosophical Challenge in Fichte's Account of Subjectivity?	67
2.4.5 Fichte's Developmental View of Self-Consciousness in Finite Beings	71
2.5 Hermann Krings' Transcendental Account of Subjectivity	82
2.5.1 Transcendental Reduction as an Alternative Method in Philosophy to Fichte's Transcendental Deduction	82
2.5.2 Retrospection as the formal Structure of the "I" in Hermann Krings' Account of Subjectivity	86
2.5.3 Analysis of Freedom according to Hermann Krings	95
2.6 The Idea of God as Consummate Freedom	98
2.7 On the Relevance of Pröpper's Theological Anthropology to Islamic Theology	108

PART II

3 Faith and Freedom in Islam	117
3.1 On the Notion of Faith in Classical Islamic Theology	117
3.2 On Different Understandings of 'aql and 'ilm in the Qur'an	131
3.3 On the Concept of īmān as Transcendental Affirmation	145
3.4 On the Meaning of Islam in the light of ḥilm-jahl Dichotomy ...	153
3.5 Final Thoughts on Faith and Freedom in Islam	163
4 The Sketch of a Qur'anic Anthropology Based on the Possibility of Friendship Between God and the Human Being	169
4.1 Khalīfah: Successor? Vicegerent? Imago Dei?	171
4.2 God-Human Relationship in the Context of the Meccan Suras ..	175
4.3 God-Human Relationship in the Context of the Medinan Suras ..	186
4.4 Conclusive Remarks on Qur'anic Anthropology	205
5 Conclusion	207
Bibliography	211