The Gospel Its Own Witness: or, the Holy Nature and Divine Harmony of the Christian Religion, Contrasted with the Immorality and Absurdity of Deism

Preface — 33

Introduction — 35

Part 1: In which the holy nature of the Christian religion is contrasted with the immorality of Deism — 40

- Chapter 1 Christianity reveals a God, glorious in holiness: but Deism, though it acknowledges a God, yet denies or overlooks his moral character — 41
- Chapter 2 Christianity teaches us to acknowledge God, and to devote ourselves to his service: but Deism, though it confesses one Supreme Being, yet refuses to worship him — 45
- Chapter 3 The Christian standard of morality is enlarged, and free from impurity: but Deism confines our obligations to those duties which respect our own species, and greatly palliates vice with regard to a breach even of them — 50
- Chapter 4 Christianity furnishes motives to a virtuous life, which Deism either rejects, or attempts to undermine — 59
- Chapter 5 The lives of those who reject the gospel will not bear a comparison with theirs who embrace it — 67

XII — Contents

- Chapter 6 Christianity has not only produced good effects in those who cordially believe it, but has given to the morals of society at large a tone, which Deism, so far as it operates, goes to counteract — 82
- Chapter 7 Christianity is a source of happiness to individuals and society: but Deism leaves both the one and the other without hope — 96

Part 2: In which the harmony of the Christian religion is considered as an evidence of its divinity — 107

- Chapter 1 The harmony of Scripture with historic fact, evinced by the fulfilment of prophecy — 108
- Chapter 2 The harmony of Scripture with truth, evinced from its agreement with the dictates of an enlightened conscience, and the result of the closest observation — 115
- Chapter 3 The harmony of Scripture with its own professions, argued from the spirit and style in which it is written — 122
- Chapter 4 The consistency of the Christian doctrine, particularly that of salvation through a mediator, with sober reason — 130
- Chapter 5 The consistency of the Scripture doctrine of redemption with the modern opinion of the magnitude of creation — 143
