Contents

Chapter One: The Purpose of these Provocations 1
Nicholas David Bowman

Chapter Two: The Utility of Presence in Communication Scholarship 17
Matthew Klein and Sun Joo (Grace) Ahn

Chapter Three: Radicalizing Social Virtual Realities 43
Haley Hatfield

Chapter Four: Merging Presence and Narrative Engagement: Is VR Storytelling the Response to the Challenges of Climate Change Communication? 61
Miguel Barreda-Ángeles, Tilo Hartmann, and Nicholas David Bowman

Chapter Five: Startup Supernovas: Lessons Learned from the Rapid Rise and Demise of the Next Big Augmented Reality Solution 81
Tony Liao

Chapter Six: The Perceived Robot Mind: Considerations and Directions for Meaning-Making Between Humans and Machines 101
Jaime Banks

Bibliografische Informationen
https://d-nb.info/1336236221

digitalisiert durch DEUTSCHE NATIONAL BIBLIOTHEK

Chapter Seven: Sexualized Robots: Use Cases, Normative Debates, and the Need for Research 117
Jessica M. Szczuka and Marco Dehnert

Chapter Eight: All the Worlds a Stage: Health/Art Techniques for Humans and Robots 135
Julienne A. Greer

Chapter Nine: Emerging Issues in Video Games and Live Streaming 149
Vivian Hsueh Hua Chen and Valerie Yu

Chapter Ten: Perspectives on Microstreaming: Labor, Interactivity and Authenticity 167
Andrew Phelps, Mia Consalvo, Kelly Boudreau, and Nicholas David Bowman

Chapter Eleven: Creative Media Misuse: Trolling and Cybercrime in Competitive and Casual Gaming 181
Christine L. Cook

Chapter Twelve: On the Emergence of Cyborgic Face-to-Face Communication: Augmented Reality, Augmented Sociality, and Extra-Dyadic Cues 199
David Westerman and Nicholas David Bowman

Chapter Thirteen: Second-Screening and Streaming: Determining the Relevant Affordances of Changing Television Viewing Behaviors 217
Bridget Rubenking

Notes on Contributors 237

Index 243