

Contents

Television Studies and Research on Series: An Introduction	1
Dominik Maeder, Herbert Schwaab, and Denis Newiak
Television as a Plural and Transmedial Concept	17
Jana Zündel
Spatialized Transmediality: Processual Seriality	37
Christine Piepiorka
‘Serial Eruptions’ in US Television from the Fifties to the Seventies . . .	53
Stefan Borsos
Historical Perspectives in the Industry Discourse on ‘Quality TV’	79
Florian Krauß
Television Series Against Late-modern Loneliness: Forms of Telemedial Communitization Using the Example of “13 Reasons Why”	101
Denis Newiak
Season Greeting’s: Between Special Events and Repetition from Television to Streaming Platforms	149
Sven Grampp
The Clip Show as a Symptom of Surplus Value and More-Than-Enjoyment	177
Markus Kügle
On the Expulsion of Television from Television Series: Reality TV and Seasonal Seriality	203
Dominik Maeder

Evidence in Series? Time and Reality References of Serial Television Formats on Digital Platforms Using the Example of Germany’s Next Topmodel and Neo Magazin (Royale)	219
Anja Peltzer
Relational and Differential Seriality	241
Michaela Wunsch
Television’s Representations of Play in Black Mirror: Bandersnatch . . .	261
Kim Carina Hebben
Limited Animation, Unlimited Seriality: The Configurations of the Serial in the Anime Series Haha o Tazunete Sanzenri, Akage no An and Tanoshî Mûmin Ikka	289
Herbert Schwaab	