

Table of Contents

Introduction.....	9
-------------------	---

CHAPTER ONE

Dreams of Horses in Integral Riding Tuition	19
The Child as the Focal Point of the Tuition	21
Diagnosis as Process.....	26
The Child as an Element of the Communication
Triangle: Child, Horse, Trainer.....	29
Five Steps to Planning a Training Module	34

CHAPTER TWO: Discovering the Horse's Nature

39

The Contact Between the Child and the Horse as the Basis for the Learning Process in Integral Riding Tuition	40
Developing the Child's Issue	45
Initial Considerations about the Practical Exercises	47

PRACTICAL EXERCISES

1. "The Free Meeting"	54
An open introduction to the subject: Finding out the nature of the horse
2. "A Short Journey of Discovery".....	57
A structured introduction to the theme: Contact and perception
3. "The Magic Forest".....	61
Metaphors and stories relating to: First contact
4. "Horse Adventure"	66
Tasks in the countryside relating to: Responsibility
5. "Visiting My Horse"	71
Proposals for games relating to: Connecting with the perception

7. “Follow Me”	83
Working exercises on the ground relating to: Becoming active and independent
CHAPTER THREE: Learning the Horse’s Language	88
Developing Communicative Competence	89
Evaluation of an Introductory Module, Using Elke as an Example, According to the Suggested Evaluation in Chapter 2	94
Factors in Achieving Communicative Competence	97
Initial Considerations for the Practical Exercises.	99
PRACTICAL EXERCISES
1. “Allow Me to Introduce Myself: I’m a Horse!”	104
Exercises relating to: Learning to understand the horse
2. “The Horse Whisperer”	113
Playful suggestions on the theme of: Empathy
3. “The Herd”	119
Open game concept on the subject of: Communication in the group
4. “Riding Communication”	124
Preparatory exercises on the subject of: Communication when riding
CHAPTER FOUR: The Path from Me to You	130
Joining the Group	131
Games and Role Play	135
Initial Considerations for the Practical Exercises.	138
PRACTICAL EXERCISES
1. “Journey to the Land of the Rising Sun”	144
Suggestions relating to: Finding a way into a new group
2. “Black Lightning”	152
Role play on the subject of: Treating the horse as a partner

3. "I Can See Something That You Can't See"	157
Inventing games on the subject of: Cooperation within the group
4. "Come and Play with Me"	163
Free play on the subject of: Deepening the connection with the horse
5. "The Journey to Fantasia"	170
Role play on the subject of: Finding your own way
6. "Gathering of the Indian Tribes"	180
A holiday activity for integrative groups
CHAPTER FIVE: The Adventure of Dominance	186
The Meaning of Independence in the Development
Process of Disabled and Non-disabled Children . . .	187
The Dynamic within the Communication Triangle for
Independent Riding.	192
Characteristics of Independent Riding	194
Initial Considerations for the Practical Exercises.	195
PRACTICAL EXERCISES
1. "I Can Ride!"	201
Exercises relating to: Collecting the first independent experiences
2. "Communication in Independent Riding"	208
Some fundamental thoughts on the communication between rider and horse
3. "The Crossing"	223
Suggestions for exercises on the theme of: Learning to steer independently
4. "The Course"	229
Exercises on the theme of: Dealing with riding challenges
5. "I'm a Horse Trainer Too!"	238
Exercises on the theme of: Working independently with the horse

6. “Going Riding in the Countryside”	246
Preparatory exercises on the theme of: Going riding together in the countryside
7. “Free Riding”	253
Suggestions on the theme of: Riding independently
Appendix 1	264
Appendix 1a	264
Appendix 1b	265
Appendix 2	266
Outlook	269