

Contents

Preface — V

Theodore D. Papangelis

Antonios Rengakos: κριτικῶν τε ἀριδείκετος πρῆκτῆρ τε ἔργων ἄριστος — XI

Publications by Antonios Rengakos — XVII

List of Figures — XXIII

Part I: Poetry

Irene J.F. de Jong

Shifting Paradigms: Peleus in the Iliad — 3

Ruth Scodel

Competitive Suffering in Odyssey 14 and Iliad 24 — 17

Michalis A. Tiverios

The Fatal Combat (Iliad 7.206–312), the Sick Frenzy of Ajax (Soph. Ajax 59), and a Relevant Addendum — 31

Benjamin Acosta-Hughes

Points of Departure: Toward a New Retelling. Hellenistic Poetry and the 'Invention' of the New — 53

Simon Hornblower

Anachronism, Prophecy, and Local History in the Mists of Time — 63

Tim Whitmarsh

Nonnus, Amyone, and the Poetics of Hydrology — 79

Gesine Manuwald

The Gods in Early Modern Historical Epics on the Spanish Armada: Christopher Ocland's Elizabethis (1589) and Thomas Campion's Ad Thamesin (1595) — 91

Part II: History

Christopher Pelling

After Alexander: Plutarch on Being a Successor — 109

Stephen Harrison

Not So Ancient History: Paris, Antony and Allegory in Horace Odes 1.15 and 3.3 — 129

Therese Fuhrer

Romulus: A Transtextual Figure between Myth and History — 143

Part III: Philosophy

David Konstan

Prehistory in Plato's Laws, with Apologies to Democritus — 165

H.-G. Nesselrath

How to Construct a Remote Imaginary Past: Primeval Athens in Plato's Timaeus and Critias — 175

Sabine Föllinger

Need as a Category of Ancient Economic Thought — 191

Georg Wöhrle

A True Philosopher: Dogs in the Eyes of Socrates and His Colleagues — 205

Part IV: Scholarship

Franco Montanari

Scholars, Antiquarians, Historians, and More: Towards a New Solution for an Old Problem — 223

Richard Hunter

Did Aristarchus Have a Sense of Humour? — 239

Fausto Montana

More Heads for Ap. Rh. fr. 13 Michaelis (v.l. κεφαλός in Hom. Il. 1.3) — 253

Bernhard Zimmermann

Bringing Light into the Darkness of the Past: Some Remarks on the Handbuch der griechischen Literatur der Antike — 263

List of Contributors — 273

Index — 277