

Contents

List of Illustrations and Maps	xi
List of Abbreviations and Conventions	xiii
Introduction: A Royal Visit	1
1. Lorenz Heidenreich (1480–1557) and Oswald Pergener (1490s–1546): The Many Faces of the Lusatian Reformation	29
The Reformation in the Towns of the Lusatian League	30
The Zittau Zwinglians	44
Conclusion	49
2. Johannes Hass (c.1476–1544): History Writing and Divine Intervention in the Early Reformation	51
Civic Confidence and God’s Helping Hand	55
Divine Intervention after the Reformation	63
Conclusion	71
3. Andreas Günther (1502–1570): Religion, Politics, and Power in the Lusatian League	73
The Mayor and His Town	74
Changes and Challenges to Urban Authority	78
The Changing Position of the Sorbs	86
Conclusion	90
4. Bartholomäus Scultetus (1540–1614): Learning, Teaching, and Remembering in the Towns of the Lusatian League	92
The Lusatian Calendar Reform	94
Dedications and Scholarly Correspondences	97
Education	104
Memorializing Lutheran Towns	107
Conclusion	113
5. Johann Leisentrit (1527–1586): Redefining Catholicism in a Lutheran Region	115
Syncretistic Rituals	118
Musical Culture	137
Limits of Syncretism	141
Conclusion	151

6. Sigismund Suevus (1526–1596): Sharing Spaces and Objects	153
Being Catholic in a Lutheran Town	154
Lauban’s Shared Spaces	157
The Görlitz Holy Sepulchre	164
Conclusion	173
7. Martin Moller (1547–1606): Possibilities and Limits of Toleration	175
Schwenckfelders	178
‘Crypto-Calvinists’	181
Jakob Böhme and His Followers	189
Conclusion	193
8. Friedrich Fischer (1558–1623): Repositioning Lutheranism and Negotiating Ways Forward	194
Bautzen’s Shared Church	195
Preaching in a Biconfessional Town	207
The King and His Towns	211
Conclusion	219
Conclusion: The Lusatian Reformation	221
Bibliography	229
Manuscript and Archival Sources	229
Printed Primary Sources	233
Online Primary Sources	238
Secondary Sources	238
Doctoral Theses	257
Index	259