

Contents

Acknowledgements — V

Sophia Papaioannou and Thomas Tsartsidis

Early Christian Writers in the West: Old and New Questions — 1

Part I: The Style, Imagery, and Rhetorical Techniques of Early Christian Writers

Chiara O. Tommasi

Tertullian, acris et vehementis ingenii: An Evaluation of his Style in Literature and Scholarship — 15

Stefan Freund

Aedificium totum paene usque ad summa perduximus: The Architecture of Lactantius' Divine Institutes — 45

Maijastina Kahlos

Stylistic and Rhetorical Techniques in Firmicus Maternus' De errore profanarum religionum — 61

Adam Trettel

Augustine, Confessions 10 as Literature? Yes, and No — 77

Part II: Intertextuality and Interpretation in Early Christian Writers

Sophia Papaioannou

Studying Ambrose Reading Vergil: Christian Culture Wars in Classical Context — 99

Ivor J. Davidson

“That I too Should Write”: Cicero's Legacy and Ambrose as Christian Teacher — 117

Thomas Tsartsidis

Arnobius as a Satirist — 143

VIII — Contents

Ingo Schaaf
Jerome as an Ethnograph(icis)er — 171

Therese Fuhrer
Augustine on Understanding and Interpreting Literature — 187

List of Contributors — 199
General Index — 201
Index Locorum — 203