

Table of Contents

Introduction 9

1. History of priestly formation and the phenomenon of vocations 15

1.1 The phenomenon of vocation 15

1.2 Seminaries as places for the formation of those called to the priesthood 19

1.3 The priesthood in the teaching of Vatican II 20

1.4 Ratio institutionis sacerdotalis pro Polonia 23

1.5 Ratio institutionis of 1999 28

1.6 Ratio institutionis of 2021 31

1.7 The dynamics of diocesan priestly vocations 33

2. Geographical and social sources of vocations 43

2.1 The geography of vocations 43

2.2 Demographic and social characteristics of the candidates 61

2.3 Social situation 65

2.4 Living conditions 77

3. The cultural and intellectual quality of vocations 87

3.1 Interests 87

3.2 General knowledge 96

3.3 Religious knowledge 99

3.4 Habits and addictions 103

4. Religiosity of candidates 107

4.1 Faith and religious experience 107

4.2 Religious beliefs 126

4.3 Religious practices 133

4.4 Religious morality 142

5. The world of values and fears of candidates for the priesthood 153

5.1 Fundamental values 153

5.2 Social and national values 160

5.3 Life concerns 166

6.	Determinants and motivation of vocations	171
6.1	Community involvement	171
6.1.1	Participation in the service of the altar	172
6.1.2	Participation in religious communities and groups	174
6.2	Local and family tradition of vocations	179
6.2.1	Knowledge of priests and seminarians from the parish	179
6.2.2	Priests in the family	180
6.3	The durability of intent	181
6.4	Environmental strengthening and weakening of vocations	185
6.4.1	People supporting the intention to join the seminary	185
6.4.2	Importance of support	191
6.4.3	Persons opposed to joining the seminary	194
6.5	Motives for vocations	196
6.6	The significance of the legacy of John Paul II	207
7.	The vision of the priesthood	213
7.1	The essence of priestly ministry	213
7.2	The ideal model of a priest	215
7.3	Pastoral passions of future priests	229
8.	The vision of the Church	239
8.1	The essence of the Church	239
8.2	The condition of the Church	243
8.3	The future significance of the Church	252
8.4	New challenges	255
9.	The vision for society	257
9.1	Social and political issues	257
9.2	Political preferences and evaluation of Poland's membership of the European Union	259
9.3	Evaluation of Poland after the June 1989 elections	262
9.4	Poland's social problems	264
9.5	The social risks of the Poland of tomorrow	268
10.	"That they may go and bear fruit ..." – formation suggestions	275
10.1	A renewed ecclesiology	276
10.1.1	The ecclesiology of Pope Francis	276
10.1.2	The church reaching out to the periphery	277
10.1.3	The Church close to the people	279
10.1.4	The closed church	280

10.1.5 Pastoral conversion	281
10.1.6 Universalism of the Church	282
10.2 Revisiting the kerygma	283
10.3 New leaders of small communities	284
10.4 Group or community?	287
10.4.1 The birth of the community	288
10.4.2 Maturing in the community	289
Conclusions	291
Bibliography	295
Sources	295
Archive of the Secretariat of the Episcopate of Poland
[Archiwum Sekretariatu Episkopatu Polski]	295
Church documents	297
Others	298
Studies	299
List of figures	301
List of tables	305
Index of persons	311