

Contents

Acknowledgements — V

List of Figures — XI

1 Introduction — 1

- 1.1 Mapping (Post)Colonial Memories: Connecting the 1947 Partition, 1971 Bangladeshi Independence, 9/11, 7/7 and Brexit — 5
- 1.2 Migrant Memories and the Postcolonial Condition — 10
- 1.3 From Media in Memory to Animating Memory — 15
- 1.4 Outlining the Animation Research Methodology — 18
- 1.5 Outline of the Book — 24

Part I: Memory Ecologies of the British Bangladeshi Diaspora

2 Mapping Generational Memory: From Partition to Present to Palestine — 29

- 2.1 Generations of the British Bangladeshi Diaspora — 29
- 2.2 Roots and Routes: First-Generation Experiences of 1971 Independence, Migration, and Systemic Racism — 32
- 2.3 Bridging Generations: Second-Generation Narratives of 1971 Independence, 9/11 and 7/7 Terror Attacks and the Rise of Islamophobia — 40
- 2.4 Generational Forgetting: Third Generation and the Loss of Cultural Memories amidst Religious Racialisation — 50
- 2.5 Concluding Thoughts: Orientalism, Colonialism and Relational Racisms — 60

3 Reimagining Intergenerational Identities: From Ethnocultural to Postnational Belonging — 64

- 3.1 Bengali Migrant Identities in the 1960s: Racism, Working-class Identifications, and the Ambivalence of Political Black Framework — 64
- 3.2 Beyond Indian or British Asian Identities: The Emergence and Challenges of a Bangladeshi National Identity — 67
- 3.3 Identity Politics and Revisioning Memories of 1971 Liberation Struggle: Decoupling ‘Bengali’ and ‘Bangladeshi’ — 72

- 3.4 From Conflict to Conviviality: Negotiating Enduring Memories of 1971 and the Pakistani Other — 75
- 3.5 Balancing Act: Negotiating Culture and Religion amidst the Turn Towards Islam Post the 1990s — 79
- 3.6 Islam as an Intracommunity Resistive Framework: Contextualising the Sylheti Diasporic Identity in Relation to Newer Bangladeshi Migration — 80
- 3.7 Beyond Borders: Affective Connections, Pan-Islamic Solidarities and the Rise of Post-National Mnemonic Communities — 87
- 3.8 Concluding Thoughts: Emergence of Postnational Ethnicities — 91
- 4 Memory Ecologies: Intergenerational Transmission in a Changing Diasporic Landscape — 94
  - 4.1 Homeland-Diaspora Memory Ecology: Interplay of Politics, Culture, and Religion in East London’s Contested Mnemonic Environment — 98
  - 4.2 Cosmopolitan Pan-Islamic Memory Ecology: The Rise of an Online Ummah — 115
  - 4.3 Concluding Thoughts: State, Media, and the Making of Race — 123

Part II: Animating Memory

- 5 Altab Ali and the Battle of Brick Lane: Animating Multidirectional Memories of the Bangladeshi Anti-Racist Resistance — 129
  - 5.1 Commemorating Altab Ali: Unravelling Multidirectional Memories through Postmemorial Creative Arts Practice — 132
  - 5.2 Altab Ali and the Battle of Brick Lane: Examining the Animated Film as Collaborative Forms of Postmemorial Artistic Practice — 136
  - 5.3 Altab Ali and the Battle of Brick Lane: Evaluating Real-World Impact of Collaborative Animated Filmmaking — 141
  - 5.4 Remembering Ishaque Ali: Beyond Competing Memories of Trauma and Forging Postmemorial Connections in Bengali Generations — 147
  - 5.5 Concluding Thoughts: Communicating Multidirectional Anti-Racist Memories — 151

6	Animating the 1947 Partition: Reorienting Diasporic Generations to postmemories of the Bengali Homeland — 154
6.1	First Interview with Ruksana: Postmemories of a Grandfather — 156
6.2	Second Interview with Ruksana's Mother, Rabeya Begum: Selective Remembering and Forgetting — 159
6.3	The Generations After: Loss of Familial Memories — 161
6.4	Final Storyboard: Reimagining and Materialising Absent Pasts in Digital Form — 167
6.5	Final Interviews and Discussions on the Video: Facilitating Familial Post-Remembrance — 167
6.6	Concluding Thoughts: Reorienting Generations around Anti-Colonial Memories — 171
7	Conclusion: Undoing Race through Creative Memory Work — 174
7.1	Generations and Shifting Memories: From Partition to Prevent to Palestine — 175
7.2	Generations and Identity: Nation, Religion, and Belonging — 176
7.3	Homeland-Diaspora Memory Ecology and Cosmopolitan Pan-Islamic Memory Ecology — 179
7.4	Race and Nation: Recentring Race in the Ongoing Marginalisation of the Sylheti Community — 181
7.5	Reanimating Memories: Mobilising Multidirectional Connections to Anti-Colonial and Anti-Racist Pasts through Creative Memory Work — 185

Bibliography — 189

Index — 205