

Table of Contents

Editor's Foreword	V
André Pascal Beyer Persistency of Higher Order Motifs	1
Radek Čech – Veronika Vincze – Gabriel Altmann On Motifs and Verb Valency	13
Heng Chen – Junying Liang Chinese Word Length Motif and Its Evolution	37
Ruina Chen Quantitative Text Classification Based on POS-motifs	65
Yu Fang L-motif TTR for Authorship Identification in Honglouloumeng and Its Translation	87
Wei Huang Length Motifs of Words in Traditional and Simplified Chinese Scripts	109
Yingqi Jing – Haitao Liu Dependency Distance Motifs in 21 Indo-European Languages	133
George K. Mikros – Ján Mačutek Word Length Distribution and Text Length: Two Important Factors Influencing Properties of Word Length Motifs	151
Yaqin Wang Quantitative Genre Analysis Using Linguistic Motifs	165
Jingqi Yan The Rank-frequency Distribution of Part-of-speech Motif and Dependency Motif in the Deaf Learners' Compositions	181

Jiang Yang
Quantitative Properties of Polysemy Motifs in Chinese and English 201

Cong Zhang
The Words and F-motifs in the Modern Chinese Versions of the Gospel of Mark 217

Hongxin Zhang – Haitao Liu
Motifs of Generalized Valencies 231

Index of Names 261

Subject Index 267