

Table of Contents

Rachelle Gilmour and Benjamin J.M. Johnson

Chapter 1

Introduction — 1

John Goldingay

Chapter 2

Closed Wombs and Failed Harvests — 13

Peter Hon Wan Lau

Chapter 3

The Book of Ruth and the Beginning of 1 Samuel: Reinforcing a Crucial Link in Primary History — 27

Michael Avioz

Chapter 4

Hannah and David's Songs: Intertextuality in Josephus — 45

Hyun Chul Paul Kim

Chapter 5

Sheol or Saul: Finding Saul in the Intertextual Oceans of the Books of Samuel, Kings, and Isaiah — 55

Song-Mi Suzie Park

Chapter 6

Flawed Fathers and Failed Leaders — 75

David G. Firth

Chapter 7

On Whom the Lot Falls: Saul and Achan — 87

Shira J. Golani

Chapter 8

Characterizing Kings and Kingship: The Enemy Lists of Saul, David, and Jehoiakim — 99

Benjamin J.M. Johnson

Chapter 9

Translating Divine Repentance: The Reception of נחם in LXX 1 Samuel 15 — 111

Melody Briggs

Chapter 10

Five Smooth Retellings? How five Children’s Bibles demonstrate the reception of David, Goliath and God in 1 Samuel 17 — 125

Lena-Sofia Tiemeyer

Chapter 11

Saul and the Small Screen: The Interpretation of the “Eternal Triangle” between Saul, Jonathan, and David in Kings — 141

Elisa Uusimäki

Chapter 12

The Road to En-Dor: Saul’s Journey as a Knowledge-Finding Mission — 155

Danna Nolan Fewell

Chapter 13

All the Kings’ Women: Royal Confiscations in Genesis, Samuel, and Esther — 167

Suzanna Millar

Chapter 14

An Intertextual Conversation on Interspecies Ethics: 2 Samuel 12:1 – 4 and Proverbs 27:23 – 27 — 189

Sara Kipfer

Chapter 15

2 Samuel 24 as “Outbreak Narrative” used for Pandemic Communication in Sermons from 19th Century England — 203

Walter Dietrich

Chapter 16

The Main Figures of the Book of Samuel in Western Literature — 219

Gary A. Rendsburg
Chapter 17
Samuel and Genesis — 231

List of Contributors — 251

Index of Scripture — 255

Index of Subjects — 271