

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction: Man's Milieu—Happiness, Understanding, Limits	1
Part One: Lonely and Adrift: Common Man and the Conflicts of Industrial Life	13
Chapter One: Seeing Forward: Ordinary Man's Clouded Perspective	15
Chapter Two: Collective Consciousness: Industrial Man and the Paradoxes of Social Logic	32
Chapter Three: Common Man and His Critics: From Ridicule and Exhortation to Parity in an Age of Political Correctness	49
Part Two: Today's Human Environment: Its Ever More Exacting Global Realities	61
Chapter Four: Realities of Work and Leisure: The Question of Psychological Costs	63
Chapter Five: Facts on the Ground: Inequities of a Global Process and Their Human Effects	81
Chapter Six: The Struggle Against Indiscipline: A Psychological Challenge to Middle-Class Society	93

Part Three: The Prospects for Education: A Way Up or a False Dawn?	107
Chapter Seven: Education (I): The Unfulfilled Promise	109
Chapter Eight: Education (II): Man the Learner: Swimming Against Cultural Currents	126
Chapter Nine: Education (III): The Learner and His Cultural Bonds: An Enigma of Modern Times	139
Part Four: Portents and Certainties: The Paradoxes of Civilized Thinking and Behavior	151
Chapter Ten: Can Men Suffer the Worst—And See Beyond the Unattainable “Best” as Well?	153
Chapter Eleven: Progress vs. The Dark Age Scenario (I): Can Governments “Manage” Poverty?	163
Chapter Twelve: Progress vs. The Dark Age Scenario (II): Man’s Dream of Progress and the Facts of Anti-Progress	175
Part Five: Individual and Mass: Freedom Within New Constraints	191
Chapter Thirteen: The Civilizing Process—A Darwinian Enigma: From Religion to Anti-Religion to Neo-Barbarism	193
Chapter Fourteen: Mankind Evolving: Civilization, Power, the Individual	214
Chapter Fifteen: The Philosophical Future	227
Chapter Sixteen: In Sum: A Foredestined Future: The Philosophical Individual	249
Bibliography	263
Index	269