

Contents

Part I: Introduction to Teaching Series and Serials in Foreign Language Education

- 1 Series_Serials Literacy as an Objective in English Language Education | Jan-Erik Leonhardt/Britta Viebrock . . . . . 15
- 2 Practical and Methodological Considerations on Fostering Series_Serials Literacy in English Language Education | Britta Viebrock/Jan-Erik Leonhardt 33
- 3 Characters in Series and Serials: Representation, Reception, and Reflection | Carola Surkamp . . . . . 47

Part II: First Encounters with Series and Serials in Foreign Language Education

- 4 “We Don’t Quit, We Got Grit!”: Ada Twist, Scientist and Young Learners of English | Grit Alter . . . . . 65
- 5 Overcoming School Anxiety: Approaching Mental Health Issues in English Language Education through The Healing Powers of Dude | Annika Janßen/Viviane Lohe . . . . . 79

Part III: More Than Just Funny: Comedies and Sitcoms in Foreign Language Education

- 6 Really That ‘Cool, Cool, Cool’? Critical Considerations on Using Brooklyn Nine-Nine in English Language Education | Jan-Erik Leonhardt . . . . . 95
- 7 Teenage Struggles, Lifestyle Products, and the Legacy of Tennis Champion John McEnroe: Never Have I Ever in the Secondary EFL Classroom | Britta Viebrock . . . . . 109
- 8 Enhancing Series_Serials Literacy and Multilingual Competences: Jane the Virgin in the EFL Classroom | Carmen Herrero . . . . . 121

9 Gender Diversity in the EFL Classroom: Representations of Queerness in Sex Education | Rieke Dieckhoff/Karoline Thorbecke . . . . . 133

10 Exploring the Coming-of-Age Sitcom Derry Girls in the EFL Classroom | Maria Eisenmann . . . . . 149

Part IV: Whodunit? Crime Series and Serials in Foreign Language Education

11 Exploring Detective Conan in the English Language Classroom: Manga and Anime Interpretations of Traditional Detective Stories | Ariadne Geiling . . 165

12 Transmedia Adaptations: BBC’s Sherlock and Arthur Conan Doyle’s Novels in the EFL Classroom | Celine Göbel . . . . . 177

13 Strike in English Language Education: A Popular British Crime Series Tackling Social Class and Celebrity | Isabelle Vanderschelden . . . . . 191

Part V: What Future Worlds Can Show Us: Sci-Fi and Dystopian Series and Serials in Foreign Language Education

14 Praise Be Women, Life, Freedom: Promoting Critical Literacy in the EFL Classroom with The Handmaid’s Tale | Sandra Winkelmann . . . . . 207

15 Hear Me Out! Difference and Conflict in The Expanse | Marta F. Suarez . . . 219

Part VI: Deconstructing Difference: The Potential of Series and Serials to Foster Social Change

16 Exploring Heartstopper Moments and Diversity with Teenagers in the Serial and Graphic Novel | Nikola Mayer/Lena Schwarz . . . . . 233

17 White Feminism: An Intersectional Analysis of the Serial Dickinson | Natalie Güllü/Mareen Lüke/David Gerlach . . . . . 251

18 Promoting Series_Serials Literacy with When They See Us | Katharina Delius 265

19 Dear White People: Deconstructing Racism and Negotiating Black Perspectives in the Upper Secondary EFL Classroom | Lena Hertzelt/Thorsten Merse . . . . . 281