

Contents

Abstract.....	11
Chapter 1. Introduction.....	15
1.1. Research background	15
1.2. Hypothesis, research questions, and objectives	18
1.3. Methodology	19
1.4. The significance of the results.....	19
1.5. Structure of the dissertation	20
Chapter 2. The problem of the relationship between event-hood and aspectuality in linguistics	23
2.1. “Events” in linguistics	23
2.1.1. Origins of the linguistic theory of events: philosophy.....	23
2.1.2. Linguistic descriptions of events.....	26
2.1.3. Event parameters: from philosophy to linguistics.....	31
2.2. Aspectuality as a linguistic category.....	35
2.2.1. The interrelation of the concepts of aspect and vid	35
2.2.2. Aspectual opposition in the Russian language	37
2.3. Aspectual forms as a reflection of the internal structure of an event.....	41
2.3.1. The semantics of aspectuality: means of representing the structure of an event.....	41
2.3.2. Boundedness as a basis for event classifications.....	46
2.3.3. Event construal through aspectuality.....	53
2.4. Empirical research on events and aspect	55
2.4.1. Studies of events in cognitive psychology	55
2.4.2. Studies on the role of gestures in multimodal communication.....	58
2.4.3. Gesture research on aspectual characteristics of verbs expressing events	62
Summary of Chapter 2.....	65

Chapter 3. Narratives: Theoretical background and methods of analysis.....	67
3.1. The material analyzed: oral narratives	67
3.2. Procedure for obtaining material for the empirical study	74
3.3. Main characteristics of the material	79
3.4. Selecting and analyzing verbal parameters.....	84
3.5. Selecting and analyzing gestural parameters.....	87
Summary of Chapter 3.....	92
 Chapter 4. Analysis of event construal in oral narratives: Verbal and gestural components	 95
4.1. Verbal construal of events: Qualitative and quantitative analyses of verbs	95
4.1.1. Analysis of tense and aspect	95
4.1.2. Qualitative and quantitative analysis of semantic verb groups.....	103
4.2. Non-verbal event construal: Qualitative and quantitative analyses of gestures	107
4.2.1. Quantitative analysis of gesture forms	107
4.2.2. Factors that influence the correlation between the expression of boundedness on the verbal and gestural levels	110
4.2.3. Gesture factors	112
4.2.3.1. The coding for functional types of gestures.....	112
4.2.3.2. Representation in gestures	115
4.2.3.3. Assimilation in gesture	118
4.2.3.4. The character of movement	122
4.2.4. Profiling factor	124
4.2.5. Linguistic-pragmatic factors	128
4.2.5.1. The influence of specific aspectual meanings of the imperfective.....	128
4.2.5.2. The influence of the verb быть (byt [to be]).....	131
4.2.5.3. The use of infinitive constructions.....	133
4.2.5.4. The use of historical present	137
Summary of Chapter 4.....	139

Chapter 5. Multimodal event construal in L2 speakers' narratives: A comparison between L1 and L2 speakers	141
5.1. Theoretical review of the French aspectual system as compared to that of Russian.....	141
5.1.1. Aspect in French.....	142
5.1.2. Differences between aspect in Russian and in French: Points of convergence and difference.....	145
5.1.3. Passé composé and imparfait in practical grammar books.....	149
5.2. Second language acquisition in speech and gesture.....	152
5.3. French L1 results in comparison with Russian L1 results.....	155
5.4. L2 study: Hypothesis, materials and methods.....	157
5.5. Quantitative results and their assessment.....	158
5.6. Qualitative results.....	159
5.6.1. Representation in gestures.....	160
5.6.2. The profiling factor in the L2 data.....	161
5.6.3. French language peculiarities.....	164
5.6.4. Peculiarities of L2 speakers' gestures.....	165
Summary of Chapter 5.....	166
Chapter 6. Summary and discussion	169
Bibliography	175
Appendix 1: Transliteration conventions used for Russian (Cyrillic to Latin alphabet)	197
Appendix 2: Consent form	199
Appendix 3: The conversation prompts as provided in Russian and French	201
Appendix 4: A screenshot of work in ELAN	203