

Contents

Acknowledgments — V

Sarah-Mai Dang, Tim van der Heijden, and Christian Gosvig Olesen
Doing Digital Film History: An Introduction — 1

Prologue

Jane M. Gaines
The DH Dilemma: Knowing More & Knowing for Sure vs. Never Knowing At All — 17

I Search

Adelheid Heftberger and Paul Duchesne
Finding Female Film Editors in Wikidata: How to Query and Visualize Filmographic Records — 47

Casper Tybjerg, Jonatan Bruun Borring, and Luan Nhu Vu
The Digitization of Silent Films and the Teaching of Film Historiography: Entanglements and Opportunities — 67

Imme Klages and Fabian Kling
Collecting Data and Connecting Traces: Researching and Modeling Sources on Doña Francisquita (S 1934) — 89

Nicole Braidă and Frauke Pirk
Teaching Small-Gauge Formats with Digital Methods — 109

II Data

Sarah-Mai Dang
Managing the Past: Research Data and Film History — 135

Kate Saccone

(Re)Visioning Women’s Film History: The Women Film Pioneers Project and Digital Curatorial-Editorial Labor — 157

Alexandra Schneider and Yvonne Zimmermann

Data Cleaning and Diversity in Digital Film Historiography — 185

Kerstin Herlt and Julia Welter

Critically Curating Data in Cultural Heritage Collections — 201

III Analysis

Christian Gosvig Olesen

Timelines of Scholarly Video Annotation: For a Tool Critical History of Digital Film Historical Scholarship — 223

Tim van der Heijden, Taylor Arnold, and Lauren Tilton

Distant Viewing the Amateur Film Platform — 239

Franziska Heller and Ulrich Ruedel

Pursuing Film History with Digital Images: Towards Visual Literacy in the Age of AI and Social Media — 271

Josephine Diecke and Malte Hagener

Managing Tools and Expectations: Dos and Don’ts of Teaching Digital Methods for Film Analysis and Film Historiography — 299

IV Visualization

Marcus Burkhardt and Skadi Loist

Visualization In/As Digital Media Studies — 315

Julia Noordegraaf

A Scalable Perspective on Historical Cinema Cultures: Studying Movie Going in Amsterdam (1952–1972) with Digital Data and Tools — 337

Matthias Grotkopp
Catastrophe or Pointillism of Disaster? Annotating and Visualizing
Patterns of Ecological Imagination — 369

Susan Aasman and Tom Sloomweg
“Pure Information, Not the Real Thing”: Digital Hermeneutics and Nelson
Sullivan’s Videographic Legacy (1983–1989) — 393

Epilogue

Eric Hoyt
Narration, Agency, and the Digital Film Historiography Group Chat — 423

List of Authors — 429

Index — 435