

Contents

Acknowledgements — IX

List of Illustrations and Table — XIII

Introduction — 1

Pietro's Life and Thought — 2

Pietro's Works — 9

Chapter 1

Body-Soul Relations in Medical Philosophy from Salerno to Pietro d'Abano — 17

The Long Twelfth Century — 18

New Translations and Commentaries — 18

Philosophical Uses of Medicine — 25

Critics — 28

Scholastic Medicine in the Early Thirteenth Century — 30

Changing Attitudes — 30

The First Decades of Medicine in the Universities — 31

Aristotelian Natural Philosophy — 34

New Ambitions, 1270–1320 — 37

Medicine as Science — 38

Galenism and Aristotelianism — 40

Philosophy at Paris — 41

Chapter 2

Complexion between Body and Soul — 45

Aristotle and Galen on Complexion — 47

Pietro's Reconciliation — 50

Complexion and Substantial Form — 53

The Best Complexion — 57

Chapter 3

Spiritus*, Life, and the Generation of the Soul — 61

Spiritus — 61

Life and the Generation of the Soul — 67

Chapter 4

The Organic Soul and the Intellect — 75

The Organic Soul — 75

The Intellect and its Parts — 83

Chapter 5

The Power of Things: Confidence and Incantations — 93

Confidence as Cure — 94

Incantations and the Power of Words — 100

Chapter 6

The Physiology of Moral Virtue — 111

Aristotle and the Philosophical Import of the Problemata — 111

Particula 27: Irascible Virtue — 115

Particula 28: Concupiscible Virtue — 119

Particula 29: Justice — 123

Epilogue — 131

Bibliography — 133

General Index — 151