

Contents

1. Introduction: MMA as ‘Fighting As Real As It Gets’	1
1.1 ‘Fighting As Real As It Gets’ and ‘Kinetic Chess’	4
1.2 The topic of this book: An enquiry into MMA training	6
2. Literature on MMA	8
2.1 General social-scientific literature on MMA	9
2.2 MMA as ‘real fighting’	13
2.3 Social-scientific literature on MMA training	19
2.4 Focused résumé of MMA literature and methodical prospect	22
3. Methodical approach, execution of study, structure of the book	24
3.1 Execution of study	26
3.2 Content and structure of the book	28
4. Producing combative causality in technique demonstrations: The setting	31
4.1 Technique demonstrations: Overview and introduction	32
4.2 The organisation of attention	37
4.3 Combative rationality and combative causality	39
4.4 One person. Three different roles. Three different kinds of behaviour	40
4.5 Résumé	45
5. Producing combative causality in technique demonstrations: (Inter-)Actions	47
5.1 Producing continuity and causality in one technique chain	48
5.2 Direct interrelations of nonverbal (inter-)action and verbal utterances ...	52
5.3 Routine repairs of demonstration performance irritations	59
5.4 Immediate repetitions	66
5.5 Résumé	78

6. Dyadic emulations of the demonstrated techniques.....	81
6.1 Methodical remarks	83
6.2 The right problem	86
6.3 Evaluating the problem’s solution	92
6.4 Confirming, transforming, and appropriating combative causality	97
6.5 Résumé.....	100
7. Sparring: Setting it up and getting into it	102
7.1 Methodical remarks	106
7.2 Prearranging sparring.....	108
7.3 Preparing sparring.....	114
7.4 Sparring: Initiation and immersion	120
7.5 Résumé.....	130
8. Sparring: Combative passion and combative actions	132
8.1 Combative passion: Forward drivenness	133
8.2 Combative passion: Powering oneself up and out.....	145
8.3 Combative action: Constructing ultimateness	161
8.4 Combative action: Constructing finality.....	170
8.5 Résumé.....	184
9. Conclusion	187
10. Prospect: Future lines of research	194
References.....	200