

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments . . . . . V

Tim Mehigan and Christian Moser
Introduction: The Situation of Ethics Today . . . . . 1

Part One: The Ethics of Hermeneutical Understanding

Mirco Limpinsel
Hermeneutic Topicality: Continuity and Discontinuity in the History of Hermeneutics . . . . . 21

Christian Moser
(Dis-)Appropriating the Heart of Darkness: Application and the Ethics of Understanding in Gadamer, Schleiermacher, and Conrad . . . . . 47

Jeff Malpas
Ethics, Place, and Hermeneutics . . . . . 69

Mark Freed
Understanding Beyond Immanence: A Quite Different Way of Thinking about Texts . . . . . 83

Paul van Tongeren
'How to Find Meaning after the Death of God.'
Ethics, Hermeneutics, and Literature . . . . . 103

Part Two: The Ethical Practice of Language and Literature

Sheron Sendziuk
Pretext, Context, and Textual Tradition: Friedrich Nietzsche's
'Hermeneutics of Hermeneutics' and the Problem Called Truth . . . . . 123

Nicholas Heron
Prelinguisticity: Koselleck and the Linguistic Turn . . . . . 149

Stefan Geyer
“That is not the meaning of the story, but what is the use of arguing?”:
The Power of Hermeneutics or Hermeneutics of Power? A Reading of
J. M. Coetzee’s Waiting for the Barbarians and Childhood of Jesus . . . . 175

Dana Bönisch
Planetary, Hermeneutics, and a Relational Poetics:
Reading J. M. Coetzee and Ian McEwan on the Humanist/Posthumanist Battleground . . . . . 193

Tim Mehigan
Bridge or Barrier? The Scene of Ethics in the Later Fiction of
J. M. Coetzee . . . . . 219

Notes on the Contributors . . . . . 241
Index of Names . . . . . 243
Index of Subjects . . . . . 245