
Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Chapter Overview	1
1.2	Rationale for this Study	2
1.3	Research Aim, Questions and Objective	4
1.4	Background of this Study	5
1.4.1	The Crowdfunding Market and its Regulation	5
1.4.2	Financial Side Conditions for Football Clubs in Germany	7
1.4.3	Overview of Football Crowdfunding Campaigns in Germany	7
1.4.4	Fan Bonds in German Football	10
1.4.5	Comparison between Supporter Crowdfunding and Fan Bonds	13
1.5	Methodology and Research Design	14
1.6	Contributions	15
1.7	Scope of this Study	15
1.8	Structure of the Thesis	16
1.9	Chapter Summary	18
2	Defining Supporter Crowdfunding	19
2.1	Chapter Overview	19
2.2	The Emergence of Crowdfunding in Practice and Research	20

2.3	Approaches to Define Crowdfunding	22
2.3.1	The Return as Differentiation Characteristic	22
2.3.2	Developing a Systematic Definition Framework	22
2.3.3	Existing Crowdfunding Definitions	32
2.3.4	Supporter Crowdfunding—the Definition Approach for this Study	38
2.4	Chapter Summary	40
3	Commitment-Trust Theory	41
3.1	Chapter Overview	41
3.2	Relationship Marketing and its Application to this Study	42
3.3	Commitment-Trust Theory and its Adoptive Character	43
3.4	Appropriateness of Commitment-Trust Theory in this Study	49
3.5	Original Key Mediating Variable Model	50
3.5.1	Antecedents of the Original Model	50
3.5.2	The Mediators Trust and Commitment	52
3.5.3	Relationship Outcomes of the Original Model	56
3.6	The Benefit of Fan Loyalty as Key Mediator	57
3.7	Fan Loyalty and Fan Behaviour	59
3.8	Chapter Summary	62
4	Conceptual Model and Hypotheses	63
4.1	Chapter Overview	63
4.2	Overview of the Conceptual Model of this Study	64
4.3	Development of the Conceptual Model	65
4.3.1	Support of the New Antecedents from Motivation Studies	65
4.3.2	Support of the New Antecedents from Fan Bond Research	69
4.4	Constructs of the Model	71
4.4.1	Perceived Meaningful Contribution	71
4.4.2	Attractiveness of Return	72
4.4.3	Desired Involvement	74
4.4.4	Social Motivation	76
4.4.5	Trust and Fan Loyalty	78
4.4.6	Willingness to Invest	79
4.5	Statement of Hypotheses	81
4.6	Rival Model Approach	88
4.7	Chapter Summary	90

5	Methodology	93
5.1	Chapter Overview	93
5.2	Research Epistemology	95
5.3	Theoretical Perspective	96
5.4	Research Methodology	99
5.4.1	Abductive Research Approach	99
5.4.2	Mixed Method Design	100
5.5	Unit of Analysis and Population	104
5.6	Snowball Sampling	105
5.7	Research Method I—Semi-structured Interviews	107
5.7.1	Purpose of the Qualitative Research Part	107
5.7.2	Development of the Interview Guide	108
5.7.3	Data Collection Process for the Interviews	109
5.7.4	Data Analysis Techniques for the Interviews	110
5.8	Research Method II—Survey	111
5.8.1	Purpose of the Quantitative Research Part	111
5.8.2	Instrument Development	111
5.8.3	Validity, Additional Interviews and the Pilot Study	120
5.8.4	Likert Scales	123
5.8.5	Data Collection Process for the Survey	124
5.8.6	Data Analysis Process for the Survey	126
5.9	Ethics	128
5.10	Chapter Summary	130
6	Interview Analysis	131
6.1	Chapter Overview	131
6.2	Respondent Overview	132
6.3	Integration from Qualitative and Quantitative Methods	133
6.3.1	Emerging Aspects for the Survey Development from the Interviews	133
6.3.2	Interview Results in Relation to Perceived Meaningful Contribution	135
6.3.3	Interview Results in Relation to Attractiveness of Return	136
6.3.4	Interview Results in Relation to Desired Involvement	138
6.3.5	Interview Results in Relation to Social Motivation	139

6.4	Is Supporter Crowdfunding a Valuable Alternative?	140
6.4.1	Experience with Fan Financing	140
6.4.2	R-Matrix	141
6.5	Chapter Summary	143
7	Survey Data Analysis	145
7.1	Chapter Overview	145
7.2	Data Exploration and Examination	146
7.2.1	Exploration of the Data Set	146
7.2.2	Normality	146
7.3	Sample Overview	147
7.3.1	Demographics	147
7.3.2	Club Preferences	149
7.3.3	Representativeness	149
7.4	Reliability of the Constructs	150
7.5	Confirmatory Factor Analysis—The Measurement Model	151
7.5.1	Purpose of the Confirmatory Factor Analysis	151
7.5.2	Unidimensionality	152
7.5.3	Initial Full Measurement Model	152
7.5.4	Respecification of the Full Measurement Model	155
7.5.5	Validity Analysis for the Measurement Model	157
7.6	Specification of the Structural Model	158
7.6.1	Rival Models Strategy	158
7.6.2	Specification of the Linear Model	158
7.6.3	Specification of a Mediating Model	160
7.6.4	Specification of a Partial Mediating Model	161
7.6.5	Modification of the Re-specified Partial Mediating Model	162
7.7	Assessment of the Structural Model	165
7.8	Chapter Summary	168
8	Discussion	169
8.1	Chapter Overview	169
8.2	Review of the Hypotheses	169
8.2.1	Discussion of Significant Hypotheses	169
8.2.2	Discussion of Non-significant Hypotheses	173
8.3	Interpretation of the Overall Model	177

8.4	Practical Implications	179
8.4.1	Altruism—Supporters want to Help the Club	179
8.4.2	Meaningfulness—Crowdfunding is Project-driven	181
8.4.3	Influence of Psychological Factors Trust and Fan Loyalty	182
8.5	Chapter Summary	185
9	Conclusion	187
9.1	Chapter Overview	187
9.2	Review of Research Questions	187
9.2.1	Review of Research Approach	187
9.2.2	Research Question 1 (RQ1): Is Supporter Crowdfunding Considered a Viable Financial Alternative by German Football Clubs?	188
9.2.3	Research Question 2 (RQ2): What Intrinsic and Extrinsic Factors Influence Fans’ Willingness to invest in a Supporter Crowdfunding Campaign of a German Football Club?	191
9.3	Contribution to Knowledge	193
9.4	Contribution to Practice	196
9.5	Limitations	197
9.6	Future Research Directions	199
	List of References	201